GOVERNOR FRIENDS PLEDGE FOR ECONOMY!

CHILD'S LABOR LAW SHOWS NEW ANGLE

Farmers' Children Would Be Excluded by Pasadena Senator's Action

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service
SACRAMENTO, Jan. 7.—With a division of opinion and a clash of interests over the joint Assembly and Senate resolution ratifying the twentieth federal constitutional child labor amendment now rampant in the California Legislature there is a movement on foot, according to Senator A. Burlingame Johnson of Pasadena, representing the Glendale district, to present another resolution petitioning California's delegation in Congress to exclude children of the farms from any enactment of child labor laws under the proposed change in the basic law. Presentation of all bills will be made next Monday.

In fact, Senator Johnson will present a resolution to the effect that "no law enacted under this article shall affect in any way the labor of any child or children on the farm of the parent or parents." That clause, he states, was rejected by the national convention of the agriculturalists. The amendment at the time Congress passed it on to the states for two-thirds ratification.

Farmers Concerned
The Pasadena senator adds that all present advocates of the child labor law claim Congress will not legislate to exclude the children of farmers from working on the farms, but the fact that the House of Representatives also rejected the amending clause by a vote of 76 to 192 has created some little alarm among the agriculturalists. It is the disposition of the California Legislature to reassure the farmers, he forecasts, by adopting the petition to Congress which he is proposing and he backs up this statement with the viewpoint of ratification advocates who believe Congress never will pass a law that will prohibit boys from working on their fathers' farms, and they are using this argument in arguing immediate ratification.

Governor Richardson, upon whom the duty of transmitting the federal amendment to the state legislature has devolved, is lending his support to the joint resolution being introduced by Assemblyman Frank C. Weller of Glendale and Senator Harry Chamberlain of Los Angeles. He has informed Mrs. Ernest Wallace, representing the California League of Women Voters, that he does not want the five assemblymen, including Miss Eleanor Miller of Pasadena, who as progressives, oppose the administration, to claim victory for its passage, or will he permit Senators Murphy and Jones to claim credit for the victory in the Senate. It is a nice tangle in the capot, for—

TEACHER IS SHOT AT CO-ED'S PARTY

Assailant Commits Suicide After Mortally Wounding French Instructor

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 7.—F. X. Bernard of Hibbing, Minn., shot and mortally wounded Miss Laura Palmer, 28, French instructor at the University of Wisconsin, this morning, and then killed himself.

The shooting occurred in the French house in the center of the university district where Miss Palmer was chaperon for a group of twelve co-eds.

A maid, hearing the shots, found Miss Palmer lying on the floor of the drawing room with bullet wounds in the stomach and arm. The body of Bernard lay nearby with a bullet in the head. A revolver was on the floor near his outstretched hands.

Bernard's identity was revealed by Miss Palmer during a moment of consciousness on the operating table. She whispered his name to Dr. James Jackson and lapsed into a coma before she could give any details. The motive is unknown.

WASTE DRIVE STARTED BY HOOVER

Commerce Secretary Urges Elimination to Save Billions of Dollars

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—A three-fold program of action for the solution of American agricultural problems was outlined today by Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, before the National Council of Farmers' Co-Operative Marketing associations, meeting in convention here. The program included the maintenance of the United States as a self-supporting nation as to its food supply, the upbuilding of organization among the farmers and the development of assemblies for the elimination of waste in production and distribution.

By ROBERT THORNBURGH
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Billions of dollars could be saved the people of the United States through application of measures to eliminate waste in commerce and industry, Secretary of Commerce Hoover said today.

Already efforts in this direction have resulted in savings that run into millions of dollars, according to Hoover, although he pointed out that there was a "great area still untouched."

1925 Campaign Aimed at Eliminating Waste, Expected to Touch Every Industry

A 1925 campaign aimed at eliminating waste, expected to touch every industry, was launched by the department of commerce at Chicago today. Representatives of railway dining cars met to standardize their equipment.

Thirty-six other standardization meetings, involving many manufacturing industries, will be held here during the next few months.

Hoover said the necessity of maintaining a high wage level requires that all processes of manufacture and distribution be reduced to the lowest possible cost. He pointed out that this can be accomplished through the elimination of waste arising through too great a degree of diversification in certain basic products.

"Merchants," he said, "accumulate great stocks, which turn slowly because of excessive diversity and lack of interchangeability of these components."

Reduction of manufacturing, selling and distribution costs, and the release for active use of millions now tied up in slow-moving stocks, combine to yield savings eventually reaching the consumer at lower prices, thus increasing his real wages and assisting him to a higher standard of living.

"The rate of our advance must be and will be in production to the extent in which we co-operate for the elimination of waste."

Records Refute Statements U. S. Did Not Pay France Revolutionary War Debts

By LLOYD A. BEHRBAS
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Around-about statements appearing in the French press and made in the Paris Chamber to the effect that the United States never paid its Revolutionary war debts to France, officials have dug back in the dusty files of the state department and found figures which completely refute these French charges, it was learned today.

Members of the American debt funding commission have been supplied with the data.

The government records disclose that four loans were secured from France between 1777 and 1783, totalling $35,000,000 livres (about $6,500,000) and that these were all repaid by 1815 with the exception of partial interest on one small loan, remitted by France.

The records disclose that there was sometimes delay in meeting the obligations—but they were paid.

French newspapers and some officials have been advancing the alleged non-payment of America's revolutionary debts to France as a reason why the United States should remit or cancel all or part of France's $4,000,000,000 war debt to the United States.

GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE IN ACCORD

Envoys Talk Debt Problem Before Conference; May Meet Next March

BULLETIN
PARIS, Jan. 7.—France's Finance Minister Clementel elected unanimously to the presidency of the international financial conference here today on the motion of England's Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill.

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service

PARIS, Jan. 7.—France and Great Britain are in complete accord on matters which will come today before the allied financial conference, it was indicated, following a conference between Finance Minister Clementel and Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill of England.

Following a two-hour conference of the two men, an official statement was issued which said: "In the most cordial spirit we have semi-officially discussed the entire question of allied debts."

May Meet In March
French officials are willing that an inter-allied debt conference be held in Brussels during March, but such a conference with American representatives absent would be "useless," officials declared.

Before definite steps could be taken for holding a conference in Brussels the question would have to be taken up with Washington and this has not been done, it was said in official circles.

The Franco-American debt situation and America's legal right to a share of the receipts derived through the Dawes plans, were paramount, in the eyes of diplomats, to all other matters scheduled to come before the allied financial conference.

Ambassadors Present
Obviously the conference is being held to work out a new division of German reparations. Actually, according to diplomatic observers, it will accomplish nothing of the kind. The best that can be hoped of the conference, they say, is that it will furnish ground for a much broader conference of the allies, at which the whole problem of war debts and reparations could be taken up.

The United States is represented by Ambassador Herrick and Ambassador Kellogg, the latter of whom came from London especially for the conference. Colonel John A. Logan, observer on the reparations commission, also is present.

The plane was tearing along at a high rate of speed near the ground, testing instruments used on the speed course, when the landing gears caught on the top of the truck.

The tragedy occurred at the old Wilbur Wright field, which is now in the stage of being made over into the new McCook field.

CHAPLIN HEIR IS EXPECTED, REPORT

Screen Star and Child Wife Preparing for Event Early Next Summer

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—Lita Grey Chaplin, child wife of Charles Chaplin, screen star, is to become a mother, according to rumors in Hollywood today. She is only 16 years of age.

"It's too early yet to say anything definite but I think the time will be early this summer," Mrs. Chaplin was quoted today as saying by her friends in the motion picture colony.

Chaplin was married to Mrs. Chaplin, who was Miss Lita Grey, youthful screen player, at Guaymas, Mexico, November 24, last.

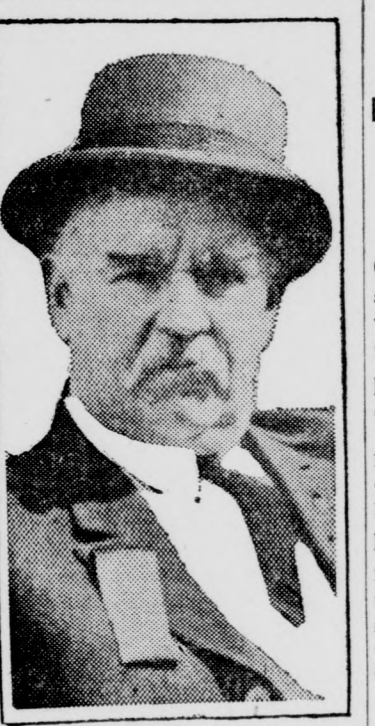

Chaplin, who is now completing a picture, will leave at the completion of the film for New York and may be accompanied by Mrs. Chaplin. The expectant mother may remain in New York for the event.

Mrs. Lillian Spicer, mother of Mrs. Chaplin, confirmed the report that her daughter was expected to become a mother this summer.

"It will be a true California baby," said Mrs. Spicer, "although it may be born in New York if Lita and Charlie decide to go there this summer."

Economy!

FRIEND W. RICHARDSON, governor of California, who today sent his message to the Legislature. This is a characteristic pose. The governor is not as puffed as the picture makes him. In fact, he's happy, for he has saved the state $12,000,000 and turned a deficit into a surplus of about $6,000,000.

LOW FLYING PLANE BEHEADS AUTOSITS

Economy Continues

Wilson, at the time, failed to definitely accept Rockne's invitation, because the Catholics' coach would not promise a return contest, to be played here in 1926.

STATE'S CHIEF IN MESSAGE TELLS OF SAVINGS

Efficient Methods Will Be Continued; Turns Deficit Into Large Surplus

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 7.—Governor Friend W. Richardson's first biennial message was submitted to the Legislature today by the governor in person, before a joint meeting of the two houses.

The document—one of the lengthiest messages on record—is at once an accounting of his administration, a defense of his economy policy, a declaration for its continuance and a presentation of a platform on which the governor, some observers believed, evidently intends to run for reelection in 1926.

The message in effect was a challenge to the opposition in the Legislature and a recital of the achievements of his administration.

All of the major departments and commissions of the state government are taken up by the governor in his report, with figures indicating the savings made by them under his budget.

All for Economy
"Economy has been the watchword of state government during the past two calendar years," said the governor. "Every endeavor has been made to conduct affairs on an economical, efficient and business-like basis."

"The results show that $12,000,000 has been saved as promised the people and that from a deficit, when I took office, there is now a surplus of $6,000,000. The practice of economy has resulted in increased efficiency in the various state departments."

"Economy came into the management of the state government in 1923 as an unwelcome guest to the bosses of the old political machine and the spendthrifts who had for years kept piling higher and higher the burden on the taxpayers. Every inch in the progress of the economy campaign has been contested vigorously and viciously by the political bosses, their tax eating parasites and spendthrifts generally."

Economy Continues
In conclusion on this phase, the governor said: "I want to assure you of my loyal support and desire to co-operate with you in every way for the best interests of the state, for the continuance of the present business policies of the state government and for the maintenance of the principles of economy. Billed down into one word, my

RAISES ISSUE ON ELECTION FOR 1928

Present Status of Coolidge
Has Bearing on Coming
Campaign, Report

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Is Calvin Coolidge still vice-president or rather acting president? Leslie H. Shaw, former secretary of the treasurer, has raised this point because he thinks it will have an important bearing on whether Mr. Coolidge may expect to succeed himself for another presidential term after 1928.

The constitution says in case of removal or death or resignation of the president or "inability to discharge the duties of his office," the same shall devolve upon the vice-president, and the Congress may by law provide for the case if the removal, death, resignation or inability of both the president and vice-president, and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed or a president shall be elected.

Filled by Election
Mr. Shaw declares that under the constitution the death of a president "causes a vacancy in that office that can be filled only by election." Others, he says, may be charged "with the responsibility of the office, becoming acting president, as in the present instance, he de facto president, but no one can be de jure president except by election for in America there is no succession."

This view would permit Mr. Coolidge to enjoy a second full term as president counting his service from August 1923 to March 4 next as a period in which he is simply "acting president" but actually still vice-president.

So far as the law is concerned there is as much ground for Mr. Shaw's view as any other though custom and precedent have given the American people the impression that when a vice-president succeeds to the duties of the presidency he actually becomes president, too. He draws the salary and discharges the responsibilities of the chief executive exactly as if he had been elected.

Custom Rules Reign
There is no law or constitutional provision which would prevent a president from serving three or four full terms. Custom and precedent again have decreed that two terms is the maximum and no one has served more than eight years though there have been repeated attempts to win for a third time. Mr. Roosevelt served seven years but announced on the eve of his election in 1904 that he would not be a candidate for a third term.

He construed that to mean a consecutive term for Mr. Taft was his choice in 1908. In 1912, however, he sought the presidency again and might have been elected but for the split in the Republican party. The third term issue was not altogether a controlling one though it no doubt played some part in the voting.

If Mr. Coolidge wishes to be a candidate in 1928, he will find no legal obstacle in his path, nothing in fact except the unwritten law that a president does not serve more than eight years. On the surface it would appear that this is an academic question and somewhat premature for discussion but the 1928 campaign is not as remote as it seems.

Stir Up Politics
Official Washington thinks a long time ahead on politics. There are a few persons in the United States Senate and two in the cabinet who may think they have a chance for the Republican nomination for the presidency if Mr. Coolidge does not run. The Republican organization leaders do not wait till a presidential year before getting things under way. Mr. Coolidge, on the other hand, will wield a more powerful club over the heads of members of Congress and the politicians generally if he is likely to remain the party leader after 1928.

Mr. Coolidge himself has given little thought to the matter, feeling that his immediate duty is to "make good" on the term for which he has been elected and that the future will take care of itself.

NEWS OF VALLEY

LANKERSHIM, Jan. 7.—Judge Harry Archibald of the Los Angeles superior court, juvenile department, will address the North Hollywood Chamber of Commerce tonight, in the store of the Universal Hardware Co. His subject will be "Child Welfare" and he will tell about boys that get into his court for wrongdoing.

An agitation for the paved streets in this section has been launched by local residents and property owners. Lankershim, they argue, has but one paved street leading north and south, and that is Lankershim boulevard.

The Los Angeles officials in charge of the valley office are buried under mounds of work and though every effort is being made to get new crews at work on the principal jobs here, progress is slow.

First services in the new Christian church building will be held Sunday, January 11, it is announced.

A Rebekah lodge is to be instituted Tuesday night, January 13. The new order, which is affiliated with the local Odd Fellows lodge, will conduct its institution ceremonies in Masonic hall, at which place they will meet thereafter on the second and fourth Tuesday nights of each month.

Scoutmasters of the San Fernando valley and their assistants will meet in regular monthly session in Lankershim, with Scoutmaster Warren Lanz as host, Thursday, January 8, in Community church social hall. The Ladies' Aid society will serve dinner at 6:30 o'clock which will be followed by business session.

SUNLAND NOTES

SUNLAND, Jan. 7.—Petitions asking the county Board of Supervisors of the county to call an election for the purpose of voting on incorporating a city of the sixth class in Sunland, have been presented to the supervisors. The board postponed their decision for three weeks, in which time the engineers will check the boundary lines given in the petitions and the names of voters signed to the papers.

Opposition to the proposed incorporation was in evidence in the form of protests from several owners of large properties located within the limits of the proposed city. This opposition was not apparent, or at least not admitted by the incorporation boosters prior to the time of the presentation of the petitions. It was generally given out that the sentiment was almost unanimously in favor of incorporating. One straw vote conducted by Earl Neumire gave a four-to-one majority in favor of the legislation. A. Adams, Jr., proprietor of the Sunland Olive cannery, S. H. Gardner, Theodore Perner and Mrs. McVine are said to be among those opposed to incorporating at this time. All are proprietors of considerable property in the community.

Supervisor Henry W. Wright stated at the hearing that incorporation would not remove the Sunland district from the newly organized fire protection district and that the tax for this purpose would be levied just the same unless the whole district were dissolved. This obstacle to the consummation of the plans will probably prove a serious factor in the outcome of the election, called. As a city of the sixth class, Sunland would organize and maintain a fire department together with other independent government and the county fire protection district tax would be superfluous and a burden on the property owners.

Fire in the Verdugo hills territory the last year was very conspicuous by its scarcity, compared to what might have been expected from a dry year and the vegetation like tinder. Very few brush fires were started and these were confined to small areas with practically no danger to surrounding property. The work of the fire wardens in organizing volunteer fire fighting brigades and their campaign to educate the people in the danger of promis-

Constant Advancements In Stocks And Bonds Are Noted In Street

By CHAS. A. WOLCOTT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The great Wall street boom, which began immediately after the election, November 4 of President Coolidge and still is in full swing, has rolled up the greatest number of fortunes ever accumulated in so short a time in the history of the country, shrewd observers of "the street" agreed today.

Who are the lucky ones? That is hard to determine accurately, for in Wall street the man who talks biggest about his profits very likely is the man who hasn't any, while the man who says nothing is quite as likely to be "rolling" in new-found wealth. Still, the street is pretty shrewd at guessing, and one of its most widespread guesses is that few individuals have profited more amply than George B. Buchanan, the well known specialist in Corn Products, and one of the most active traders on the floor of the New York stock exchange.

The nicest thing about Mr. Buchanan, if the sages of the street are right, is that he did not try to grab all the profits in sight for himself. His own takings are rated well up in the millions—four or five is said to be a conservative figure—but to the street agrees that fully fifty persons followed Mr. Buchanan's tips and profited in amounts ranging from $5000 to $100,000.

Going To Florida
He'll be leaving soon for Florida, will Mr. Buchanan, to take a few months well earned rest in the sunny sands of the winter playground, whether he already has been preceded by others who earned their vacation expenses in the street during the big boom—such men as William C. Durant, the automobile manufacturer, and George Whelan, the tobacco man. Mr. Durant is credited with having cleared up some three millions in Cast Iron Pipe and other stocks, while Mr. Whelan also is said to be richer by some millions as a result of his "bullish" sentiments about conditions in this country.

The late Nathan Allen of Wisconsin, is said to have been one of Mr. Buchanan's fifty followers who profited most handsomely from Mr. Buchanan's tips. He was one of the organizers of the Central Leather Co., and among his large holdings at his death was a block of Corn Products, the favorite speculative medium of Mr. Buchanan's activities.

Bank Profit
While many fortunes of one to five millions were made by individuals, first place among the beneficiaries of the upward surge of the market goes to the big banking syndicates. Gossip has it that the First National bank interests, which have been in the forefront of the "bulls" up on the United States, have profited on a larger scale than all the rest of the Wall street banking institutions put together.

The officials of several corporations, among them those of Standard Oil and the Dupont interests, are reported to have profited handsomely by the opportunities which the election of a conservative like Mr. Coolidge offered.

Rail Influence
Banks associated with railway finance, like Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Speyer & Co. and Levan Brothers, have gained heavily from the speculation born of the rejected consolidations and the feeling that for the first time in more than a decade the transportation systems of the country were to be free from unfavorable influences.

Of course there is another side to the speculation of the past few months. A number of traders who lacked the vision to see what would follow the victory of the conservative element at the polls are said to have been heavily "short" of the stock market. Obviously they have been the losers, and have had to pay dearly for their poor judgment. But nobody thinks much about the losers. It's the winners that count.

Several holiday family entertainments were held in Sunland. Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rice entertained Mrs. Rice's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniels and her niece and nephew, Iris and Kenneth Howell, Miss Mercedes Perle, Ralph Stark, William Richardson and several other guests.

Edward and John Crews entertained a number of friends at their home on Sherman avenue. Among those present were Miss Dorothy James, Harriett and Elizabeth Morales, Leo and Niles Pinson, Tony and Steve Ardizzone, Norman Stevens, Donald

BURBANK BIDS FOR COLLEGE LOCATION

Glendale Backs Neighboring City for U. of C. Site In San Fernando

Burbank's bid for the new plant of the University of California, southern branch, was made before the university site committee yesterday afternoon. Burbank, in its effort to secure the university for the San Fernando valley, is backed by Glendale and other municipalities in this section. George J. Lyons, representing the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, was present at the meeting of the site committee at the Los Angeles Chamber building. He spoke in behalf of the acceptance of the Burbank site. Glendale's sister city offered 800 acres of choice land at a nominal charge of $500 per acre. In addition, 200 acres adjoining the main tract would be available without charge.

Other cities which offered sites at yesterday's meeting were: San Diego, 4000 acres without charge; Fullerton, 1000 acres without charge; Monrovia, a site to be specifically designated later; Oxnard, 600 acres without charge, endorsed by the whole of Ventura county; southwest site at Palos Verdes, 1000 acres without charge, endorsed by seventeen cities; San Fernando, 1000 acres at $800 per acre and a second site to be chosen later; Covina, 601 acres at $1000 per acre; Chino, 800 acres at $500 per acre; Pomona, 800 acres now owned by the state of California, Pasadena, 1000 acres, proposed by the federated women's clubs; Pasadena, South Pasadena and Alhambra, joint site to be named later.

All sites recommended will be submitted to the board of regents of the University of California immediately and that body will be urged to make a fair and unbiased decision in the near future. Telegrams to this effect were sent to the secretary of the university board by all representatives of Southern California cities who attended the session of the site committee.

In Crook Play

JOSEPH M'MANUS, who appears in the Dobinson Players' current production, "The Hole in the Wall."

Fred Jackson's famous mystery play, "The Hole in the Wall," is to be the offering at the Playhouse, Central avenue and Lexington drive, this week, opening with the Wednesday matinee. Incidentally, it is the first play dealing with spiritualism that reached New York and made a hit. The story of "The Hole in the Wall" revolves about the efforts of Jean Oliver, who has been forced to do time in prison for a crime she never committed, to avenge herself on society, and in particular the mother of her former sweetheart who was largely responsible for her conviction. As a means to this end she employs the aid of a clever band of crooks, who resort to fake spiritualism to gain their ends, and kidnap the woman's grandson to whom she is devoted. A former lover of Jean's now turned detective enters the story and further complicates the situation. The ingenious manner in which Mr. Jackson, the author, has worked out the play makes it a drama in a thousand.

George C. Pearce, director of the company, has chosen an excellent cast for this production, which includes Mary Worth, Olaf Hytten, Joseph McManus, William H. Stephens, Richard Ehlers, Thyra Ruhlund, Fanna Ralstin, William Chapman, Mildred Evelyn and Harry Glazier.

Vancouver, B. C., is to have a department store covering an entire block.

RAILWAY HEAD ASKS LAND VALUATION

Southern Pacific Executive Suggests Chamber List Acreage Available

Suggestions from C. R. Smurr, industrial agent of the Southern Pacific railroad, that the Glendale Chamber of Commerce secure price lists on all industrial lands available in the Glendale industrial district and file these lists with the railroad company, and that in all instances the price of factory acreage here be kept down to from $5000 to $7000 per acre, will be taken up and probably acted upon by the industrial committee of the chamber.

In a letter read before the directors of the chamber at their meeting yesterday, Mr. Smurr for the second time warned against the establishment of prohibitive prices for industrial land in Glendale. He said legitimate prices would be from $5000 to $7000, and no more. He urged that the price lists on all available acreage be placed in his hands, so that he can make the more intelligent direct prospective firms which have factories to locate.

The suggestions of the Southern Pacific industrial expert will be considered in connection with the forthcoming industrial survey.

Numerous Articles At Station Want Owners

Numerous articles that Glendale people have doubtless given up as either lost or stolen are being held at Glendale police headquarters, in the city hall, reports Chief John D. Fraser. Among these articles are the following, which will be returned to the owners on proper identification: Pair of long black women's gloves, one grey women's glove, one blue and brown silk scarf, one child's black purse, with a five cent piece in it, two bicycles and a number of automobile tools and accessories.

NEW BUILDINGS FOR ATWATER DISTRICT

Construction Well Under Way; Both Structures Will Be Big Credit To Fast Growing Community

Two new store buildings on Glendale boulevard in the heart of the Atwater business district will soon be completed and ready for tenants. Construction of the two new structures is more than half finished at the present time.

A two-story building of brick will be located at the southeast corner of Garden avenue and Glendale boulevard. There will be three store rooms on the main floor, one of which will be occupied by a grocery and vegetable market. It is hoped to locate a drug store in the corner store room. The building is owned by A. Markowitz and will cost in the neighborhood of $18,000 when completed. Office suites and apartments will be located on the second floor.

Directly across the street from the Markowitz building is rising a single story structure built by the Arthur Gilman Co., for Frank Shugart. This structure will contain four store rooms. The corner has already been leased for a drug store. A bakery and haberdashery are now being sought for two of the other rooms. The building will be stucco finish and will cost approximately $15,000. It will have a floor space 75 feet front by 60 feet to the rear.

Better Library Service

Positive information as to what the Los Angeles library board is willing to do in the Atwater district will probably be brought out at the time of the next meeting of the Atwater Community Improvement association in the auditorium of the Baptist church, Perilla and Tyburn avenues. The meeting will be held Monday night, January 19.

Several members of the library board will be present at the session, according to P. E. Lipscomb, treasurer of the association. They will be asked to state definitely what is contemplated in the way of a branch library for Atwater. It is stated that although suitable library sites have been offered to the board for erecting, and parties are ready to erect a costly building, should the board see fit to lease it as a library, there is the feeling that positive assurance

Included in the list of Legion officials present at the meeting last night were: Paul Dodson, past commander of South Pasadena post; Commander Bosbyshell of Navy post, Los Angeles; Commander Cook of Covina post; Commander Farrell of Arcadia post, and Adjutant Marshall of Huntington Park post. They made short addresses in which they discussed plans for the coming year and gave helpful hints for the conducting of Legion business.

Commander Mack of the Monrovia post introduced the new officers who will have charge of the affairs of the Monrovia post during 1925. Each officer, as introduced, spoke of the future of the post and complimented the officers and members of Glendale post for the manner in which the meeting was conducted.

W. H. Richards, second vice-commander of Glendale post, and chairman of the float committee, received an ovation when he was introduced. The Glendale post was complimented by the officers and members of Monrovia post for the great showing made in the

EVA GAUTHIER DELIGHT TO AUDIENCE

'High Priestess of Song' In Concert Last Night at Tuesday Clubhouse

The prima donna type of singer, aloof, haughty, and maintaining between herself and her audience an insurmountable barrier—vanished from the minds of Glendale music lovers and others, who heard Eva Gauthier last night in concert at the Tuesday Afternoon club, under the auspices of the Glendale Music club. Miss Gauthier has a charming way of taking her audiences into her confidence and explaining to them what she is trying to do, which establishes with them an intimacy that has increased the popularity that would accrue from her voice alone.

No more stimulating personality can be imagined. She is utterly informal, extremely foreign, yet free from pose. She maintains the dignity of the concert stage, not by the usual manner of condescension, but by doing what a recitalist is supposed to do: Singing fine music and singing it with utmost artistry.

Create Atmosphere
 There is atmosphere created by Miss Gauthier for each of her songs. Her first group last night included folks songs of Java and the Malay states, and was a delightful rendition of what music critics declare to be the most complete of all oriental music. Adding charm to the group was the Javanese costume worn by Miss Gauthier, a native creation of the wonder batik work, a replica of a costume of a royal dancer in the sultan's court.

Miss Gauthier, who is a French Canadian, spent five years in Java, so is able to give a colorful word picture of the setting of her songs.

Miss Gauthier possesses a warm mezzo soprano voice, and her diction is excellent in all languages, her native French being music in itself. The richness of her voice was unusually effective in Schubert's "Der Lindenbaum" in her second song group, composed of classical numbers.

It is difficult to single out individual numbers from a program so uniformly distinguished. Most striking perhaps, was the newly discovered setting of the "Erlkönig" by Beethoven, strangely foreshadowing the work of Schubert.

Third Song Group
 The third song group included old and modern settings of Shakespearean and the ones following, were miscellaneous French songs. Chatting familiarly with her audience, Miss Gauthier translated the words of the song in other languages than English, preparing the way for a thorough understanding of every number.

So-called American "jazz" songs composed the final group. They were well chosen from America's

Float Honors Contested Of Legion Entry

The awarding of the James A. Drain cup to Glendale post No. 127, American Legion, as the most impressive float in the legion division at the Tournament of Roses, has been held up pending the decision of the contest committee, it was learned today. The post at South Pasadena, winner of first place in the legion division, has formally protested the awarding of the cup to the Glendale post, pointing to the fact that the South Pasadena post float won first while Glendale post won second.

Composer House Guest Of Glendale Lyrists

While in Canada Mr. and Mrs. Roos gathered material for songs, cantatas and photoplays.

Among the new Roos songs are: "In the Lodges of the Sioux," lyric by Charles Roos, music by Homer Grunn; "The Moon Goes Drifting," lyric by Juanita Roos, music by Homer Grunn; "In the Garden of Sahara," lyric by Charles Roos, music by Charles Wakefield Cadman; "Reeds," lyric by Juanita Roos, music by Charles Wakefield Cadman; "Little Sod House on the Mesa," Charles Roos and Thurlow Lieurance; "Dream Trail," lyric by Juanita Roos, music by Thurlow Lieurance; "Indian Dawn," lyric by Charles Roos, music by J. # New Vim From Fresh Water and here is the only way to have fresh water always in the home—

You are drinking stale water. It is not the water that Nature intended you to drink.

For fresh water, just as it comes from a natural spring, possesses a vitally important element.

But this freshness is soon lost when water is stored in bottles, reservoirs or pipes. Even hermetically sealed, this one element which scientists say is as important to health, as vitamins in the diet, cannot be retained.

Medical Authority
 Each year thousands go upon medical advice to the famous springs at Hot Springs, Arkansas, owned and operated by the United States Government for the benefit of all citizens.

In Europe there are similar springs at Vichy, France, Bath, England and elsewhere.

Both the sick and the well go frequently to these health resorts to drink the fresh water which helps them to regain and to maintain health. They benefit in a high percentage of cases.

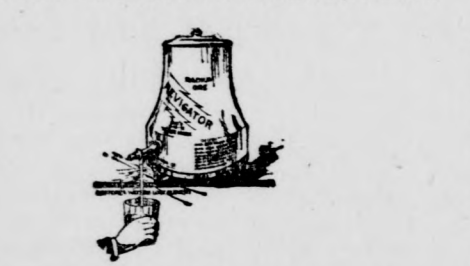

But when they leave, they must again drink stale water. So the benefits are apt to be temporary.

Niton, The Vital Element
 Scientists attest that much of the health value of the water from these famous springs—in fact water from any spring contains it to some extent—is due to an element called Niton—radioactivity.

It becomes a part of the waters as they flow through the underground regions of the earth before coming to the surface. They sweep against the subterranean rocks which contain millions of tiny radium deposits.

Thus the water comes to the mouth of the spring fresh, healthful, as Nature intends it to be.

A Great Discovery
 These facts have been recognized for years. It has also been known that this radioactivity—Niton—could not be retained in stored water.

PROBATION FOR CRIMINALS

A Santa Barbara paper reports the conviction in the superior court in that city of a young man who had passed worthless checks totaling $600. He had been in similar difficulties more than once before, but he asked the judge for one more chance, and was granted probation. Now the authorities are looking for him again to explain worthless checks amounting to $800. Evidently the chance the young man wanted was to defraud other trusting business men.

Incidents like the above add to the popular dissatisfaction with the custom of granting wrong-doers probation, although the system in itself has much to commend it, and, according to statistics, the number of probationers who "make good" under wise probationary supervision is large compared with the number that again go wrong. There are many who are capable of profiting by their own mistakes and they should be given every chance to reform. Society gains nothing by imprisoning such offenders.

It may be difficult for a judge to make wise decisions in the matter of granting probation, but there seems to be nothing to justify probationary persistent offenders, as is often done. The records show that a second offense following arrest and conviction of a crime indicates a criminal tendency, due, perhaps, to a defect of character, but none the less dangerous to society.

The appalling increase in crime in this country should lead to the employment of more drastic measures in dealing with law-breakers. Prison is the only place for the confirmed criminal. Less leniency toward criminals, accompanied by more humane treatment in prisons, would have a tendency to decrease crime.

SLUSH FUND CHARGE DROPPED

The charge of a huge slush fund which bobs up in every presidential campaign was in evidence last November, when, just before the election, there were rumors of intercepted telegrams that threw some light upon a huge fund that was being collected by Republican leaders.

But now the charge has been dropped by Samuel Untermyer, who started the rumor, and Senator Walsh, who was one of the investigators, says he is satisfied the telegrams were forgeries. A number of messages signed by the Franklin National bank were displayed by Mr. Untermyer to the committee. Names of such corporations as the United States Steel, General Motors Co., Standard Oil Co. and General Electric Co. were used and the messages were supposed to be for federal reserve banks throughout the country, containing directions for distributing campaign contributions running into the millions of dollars. The records show that no such messages were transmitted or received, and officials of the Franklin National bank testified that no such telegrams were sent, and pointed out that their business would not be transacted with any of the federal reserve banks specified.

Since those who made this charge in the first place are willing to drop it, there seems to be no truth in the story. It is evident that it was made up out of whole cloth for campaign purposes. Last-minute fraudulent campaign stunts should be traced to their source and punished, no matter what party perpetrates them or what candidate is elected. Any man, or men, who will resort to such low-down methods to defeat any candidate is, or are deserving of penitentiary sentences.

MODERN EDUCATION

There is so much discussion today of education, educational methods and of what constitutes education that Ludwig Lewisohn's comments on education in his book, "Up Stream," though a little exaggerated and sarcastic, are timely and contain some truth. He says:

"To the 'average intelligent American,' education for which he is willing to deny himself and pay taxes, means—skill, information—at most, accomplishment. Skill and knowledge with which to conquer the world of matter. It does not mean to him an inner change—the putting on of a new man, a new criterion of truth, new tastes and other values. The things he wants at the university are finer and more flexible tools for the economic war which he calls liberty. And, like tools or weapons, they are external to him and are dropped when the class room period or the working day is over. He then merges himself into the great level of the democratic mass from which he strives to be distinguished only by the possession of these sharper tools. By his outlook on life, his distinction of taste, his finer palate for truth he would hesitate to be different from his fellows. He would seem to himself in danger of being a 'high-brow' and a snob. * * * Our students, then, come to the university, not to find truth, but to be engineers or farmers, doctors or teachers. They do not want to be different men and women. I suppose these state universities do turn out very fair engineers and farmers and veterinarians. But when their job leaves these men free they are but little different from people who have never been to college."

REGISTERING ALIENS

A bill is before Congress providing for the annual registration of all aliens in this country that is not without merit, although being a "member" bill and not one reported by the committee on immigration, it stands little show of being seriously considered, at least at the present session of Congress.

In the past few years public opinion regarding aliens, as expressed in this bill, has changed. The sentiment that this nation was a haven for the oppressed of the old world dominated our immigration policy for a good many years and the welcome that we extended to people of other lands has enriched our blood beyond compute. Splendid citizenship, wonderful achievement, progress in every phase of life have been added to us as a nation by these people of old-world birth and those in whose veins flows foreign blood. Noble souls from other lands have added immeasurably to our greatness as a country.

But lately, some immigrants have ceased to come to this country for political refuge. They came here because of economic advantages and instead of wishing to become of us they seek to mould our national life after that of the country from which they came. The element in this country that is foreign in spirit is the element that is dangerous, and that should be closely watched.

THE HOT AIR ISN'T KEEPING THE BOYS WARM!

Good Weather

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Weather is a common cause of complaint, no matter how good or bad it is.

It is probably the most talked of subject in the world, as it is the entering wedge of most conversations.

Mark Twain said that he had noticed that although everybody talked of the weather, as far as he could see, nothing had been done about it.

In the Fall of 1924 the weather throughout the United States was remarkably good and yet we have heard many complaints of it, especially from merchants.

The trouble, they said, was that the weather was unseasonable. It was not conducive to buying. No man wanted to buy an overcoat, and no woman a set of furs, when the days were warm and summery. We needed a touch of winter in order to stimulate trade. There may be some truth in this, but there is another side to it.

The weather of which the merchants complain is good for farmers. It enables them to be out of doors all day and to attend to the gatherings of their crops and their farm duties. This enables them to make more money and hence to have more to spend. The only place they can spend it is in the stores and so, eventually, the money gets around to the merchants.

Thus it will be seen that what is bad weather for one set of people is good for another. We must remember that whatever the day may be it always pleases somebody.

If we could all have our way we would have several kinds of weather at once. If we could get everything we prayed for, and we were all devout Christians, we would be praying simultaneously for a hundred and fifty kinds of weather. In other words, there would be more weather in the day than the day could contain. The weather would be even more erratic than it is at present.

James Whitcomb Riley's dictum was that "When it rains, rain's my choice." That is a good attitude for all of us to take. We should be happy in any kind of weather that is sent to us because no matter what we do or say we cannot change it.

Horoscope

Contrary influences have power today, according to astrology. Although Jupiter and Venus are in benefic aspect, Neptune is strongly adverse.

Again the stars promise much to merchants and manufacturers, especially all who cater to the trade of women buyers.

Although economy may be exercised in many ways, dress is to be valued more and more as an expression of personality and will command more attention than ever before, it is prophesied.

Much wrong thinking is likely to be prevalent when the stars are posited as they are today. The mind may be open to many evil suggestions that should be determinedly rejected.

Neptune is in an aspect under which deception is supposed to be easy and misapprehensions numerous.

There is today rather a sinister sign regarding oil and oil speculation.

Although new wells are to be discovered many disappointments are probable, for strangely enough luck probably will touch only those who need it least.

The seers warn that wealth will pile up for those who possess fortunes while they who work for success meet many defeats.

Seeming inequalities and lack of justice, astrologers explain, are only part of the plan in human development and are blessings that will be recognized by all who keep faith with themselves.

Care of the health is enjoined at this time when the transmission of certain diseases will cause anxiety.

Growth of individualism is to be more and more apparent among the young who are students of books and life, it is foretold.

Reactionary influences of many sorts will be numerous and will be reflected in minor matters, it is prophesied. Women are to discard cosmetics and to cultivate naturalness in appearance as well as manner.

Persons whose birth date it is have a happy augury for the year which should bring domestic peace and financial ease. The young will court and marry.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly reliable and well-conducted. These subjects of Capricorn should be distinguished by keenness of intellect and nobility of character.

Who's Who

The new German ambassador to the United States, Baron Ago von Maltzan comes to this country not as a stranger to official Washington.

While he was serving as under secretary in the German foreign office for the past three years the Baroness von Maltzan entertained many American visitors stopping in the German capital on official or unofficial business. The baron and Secretary of State Hughes met while the head of the United States department was in Berlin last summer.

Baron von Maltzan is 47 years old, a native of Mecklenburg, and was educated at the universities of Bonn and Breslau. Starting on a military career, he became lieutenant of dragons in 1898 but shifted to the diplomatic side through entering the foreign office as an attaché in 1906. He served as secretary of legation at Rio de Janeiro, Christiania and St. Petersburg, and in 1912 became council of legation at Peking, where he remained until China entered the war against Germany.

He has been an under secretary in the foreign office for the past three years.

Baron von Maltzan accompanied Foreign Secretary Rathenau and Chancellor Wirth to the Genoa conference and was influential in framing the treaty of Rapallo between Russia and Germany, which came as such a great surprise to the entente powers represented at the Genoa gathering. While in China he married Edith Cruse, daughter of a prominent Magdeburg steel manufacturer. They have one daughter.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

"More men know how to flatter," said Wendell Phillips, "than how to praise."

To flatter is easy, to condemn is easy, but to praise judiciously and indiscriminately is not easy.

"Extravagant praise defeats itself, as does extravagant blame," John Burroughs opines.

"A man is rarely overpraised during his own time by his own people."

"If he is an original, forceful character, he is much more likely to be overblasted than overpraised. He disturbs old ways and institutions."

"We require an exalted point of view to take in a great character, as we do to take in a great mountain."

We are likely to overpraise and overblame our presidents and our leaders. Lincoln was greatly overblasted in his day, but we have made it up to his memory. Wilson won applause from both sides in his first term, but how overwhelmingly did the tide turn against him before the end of his second term.

"A president of the United States must ever be the target of intelligent ridicule and criticism, not to mention a secondary fusillade of bean-shooters, custard pies and asafetida bombs," observes a contemporary writer.

A little of the Scottish moderation is not so bad; it is always safe.

"A wise man will always prefer unjust blame to fulsome praise," Burroughs says.

Extremes in the estimation of a sound character are bound sooner or later to correct themselves.

Wendell Phillips, who said "More men know how to flatter than how to praise," got more than his share of blame during the anti-slavery days, but the praise came in due time.

Tacitus, in Agricola, avowed that flatterers are the worst kind of enemies, and another ancient, Phaedrus, opined that they who delight to be flattered, pay for their folly by a late repentance.

Worth repeating here is La Rochefoucauld's time-tested observation to the effect that we sometimes think we hate flattery, but we only hate the manner in which it is done.

"Callantry of mind," he averred, "consists in saying flattering things in an agreeable manner."

Today's Poem

DREAM-PEDIARY
If there were dreams to sell,
What would you buy?
Some cost a passing bell;
Some a light sigh,
That shakes from Life's fresh crown
Only a rose-leaf down.
If there were dreams to sell,
Merry and sad to tell,
And the crier rang the bell,
What would you buy?

A cottage lone and still,
With bowers nigh,
Shadowy, my woes to still,
Until I die.
Such pearl from Life's fresh crown

Fain would I shake me down,
Were dreams to have at will,
This would best heal my ill,
This would I buy.

CO-OPERATION PUTS FLOATS IN FRONT

All Glendale Pitched In To Make Entries Go Over With Bang

L. W. Chobe, chairman of the Glendale float committee and designer of the city's prize winners in the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena, personally extended thanks to The Glendale Evening News for this newspaper's co-operation in the task of float building. Mr. Chobe stated that this newspaper each year did its part toward the cause and he wished to personally extend his thanks. Also Mr. Chobe issued the following statement of appreciation for the co-operation given the float committee:

"Once again loyal Glendaleans have cheerfully co-operated in the preparation of the floats, which the Glendale entered in the Tournament of Roses on January 1, 1925.

"Charles Van Dusen of 247 North Kenwood, Glendale, was the superintendent of construction for the floats, which he supervised. Mr. Van Dusen has helped construct for the city of Glendale. Without Van's valuable assistance building a float would be a much greater task.

"George G. Gilkerson and Dr. R. L. Colquhoun, chiropractors, kindly donated the use of the lot at 320 East Broadway, where the floats were built. This was the only lot conveniently located which was available.

All Night Booster

"George Hastings, after working all night helping to build the floats, voluntarily accompanied the city float along the whole line of march to help guide it, received the first prize banner and placed it on the float. Hurrah for George! Frank Fellows worked all night and operated the floats, which moved but with wings through parade. Mrs. M. L. Tigh was busy collecting and helped in other ways.

"Mrs. Thomas H. Addison, as usual, was in charge of serving the lunch and was on the job until the wee sma' hours.

"Again the crowd of workers enjoyed Mrs. Wimmer's delicious baked beans. Mr. Kaighin supplied the seventy-five workers with an abundance of his famous candles. The gas company furnished the gas and the city of Glendale supplied the water to heat the building in which the floats were constructed.

"The Willard Battery Co. furnished lights and batteries for both floats to go to Pasadena early in the morning.

"Mr. Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, furnished light, water and one tractor. Mr. Farrell, superintendent of streets, furnished red lanterns and tractor.

"Fred Deane and Jim Rhoades and Fred Deane were ready and willing and did their share.

"Mr. Allen, the Glendale florist, assumed the great responsibility of securing and delivering on time the necessary flowers for both floats.

"Capt. R. E. Dodsworth of the Glendale Fire department, again guided the city float to and from Pasadena and through the parade, with the same ease as though he had been guiding a Ford, returning to Glendale at 3 p. m.

"A large attendance is expected tomorrow night following the interest shown last year and the announcement of the exceptional program.

Chief Fraser smiled and winked to a man who was sitting in his office.

"This is your party," he said.

The man took the phone. "Hello, Ed," he called. "I'm up at the police station, looking for you. I thought when you didn't return from your walk that you'd got run

Continues Lecture on Bible at Clubhouse

Miss Winifred Rouzee, Bible student and lecturer, resumed her lecture series, "Book by Book Through the Bible," yesterday afternoon at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse. A company of club members and friends filled a large part of the banquet hall for the lecture.

After reviewing Genesis and Exodus, taken up before the holiday time, Miss Rouzee presented the book of Leviticus. Pointing to the first verse of the first chapter, "And the Lord called unto Moses," Miss Rouzee stated that undoubtedly there had been other chapters preceding that had been lost. She arranged the book of Leviticus into four parts, under the titles, "How to Worship," "Code of Law," "Israel Redeemed," and "The Walk With God and to God By Way of Sacrifice," or "Dedication," and "Conservation." "Separation" and "Conservation."

Mrs. Charles H. Temple, curator of the Bible department, presided over a short meeting before the lecture. It was decided to hold the teas after the Bible lectures.

COMMUNITY SING PROGRAM GIVEN

Noted Musicians to Appear On Initial Program of Season Tomorrow

A group of numbers by musicians of exceptional ability will be included in the program of the season's first community sing, which will be held in the Harvard High school auditorium at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, under the direction of Glendale Community Service. The public is invited to this gathering, which is the first of a series to be conducted along similar lines to those of last winter.

Milford C. Jackson, one of Glendale's foremost singers, will contribute several numbers. Mr. Jackson is well known throughout the district for his artistic voice, being a prominent member of the Orpheus club of Los Angeles.

Other selections will be given by the Lane Trio, composed of Mrs. Walter Robinson, her 10-year-old daughter and 7-year-old son. Vocal and instrumental numbers will be offered, the musicians being expert players of the Hawaiian steel guitar, ukulele and Spanish guitar.

Myers to Direct

Under the name of the Lane Trio, Mrs. Robinson and her son and daughter were formerly leading players on the Orpheus circuit, being on programs throughout the United States. They now make their home in this city, and it was Mrs. Robinson's keen interest in musical activities here that won her acceptance of the Community Service invitation to appear on the program tomorrow.

The remainder of the program will be given over to community singing, led by J. Arthur Myers, director of the Glendale Symphony orchestra and Choral club. Mrs. Gertrude Erb will act as accompanist. Arrangements are in charge of R. Ernest Tucker, superintendent of municipal recreation; George J. Lyons, president of Community Service, and V. M. Hollister, chairman of its music committee.

A large attendance is expected tomorrow night following the interest shown last year and the announcement of the exceptional program.

"I regret that it is impossible for me to mention the names of the seventy-five interested and willing workers who helped prepare flowers and helped decorate the floats. I wish to take this opportunity to personally thank each and every one, and also on behalf of the float committee.

"Last but not least, I want to thank Mr. Burke and his wonderful Elks' band, which added the finishing touches to our float."

A number of committees of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce stood completed today and ready for a year of activity following approval of their appointment by the board of directors last night. Herman Nelson was presented as secretary as one member on the committee from the Chamber of Commerce.

Industry Sought

The board by unanimous vote adopted the agreement between the Chamber of Commerce and M. N. Alderman, statistician, who will supervise the Glendale industrial survey. A report on plans for the survey was given by Director Frank L. Fox, chairman of the industrial committee. Secretary Howard L. Wood reported to the board that satisfactory arrangements were being made with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce which will assure the cooperation of that body with Glendale in securing results once the survey here is completed. Action to bring one large industrial plant to this city has been started by Secretary Wood with the aid of the Los Angeles chamber. The nature of the industry was not divulged in the report, though the secretary said it is an old established firm and well adapted to location here.

Action on proposed moving of the Chamber of Commerce headquarters and executive offices, now located at 150 South Brand boulevard to the Masse building, corner of Brand boulevard and Lomita avenue, was deferred until a later meeting. Director W. L. Truitt told the directors that two store rooms would be necessary to house the chamber offices and recommended that the headquarters not be moved unless these can be secured at a rental not exceeding that paid at present. The chamber holds a lease on the suite occupied at the present time so that it would be necessary to sublet to someone else before the office could be transferred, it was pointed out. An attractive offer of $175 monthly for two store rooms with a frontage of 32 feet was made by W. B. Kelly, agent for the lessee. The matter will be considered further by a special committee headed by Director Truitt.

The chamber voted to take membership in the Boulder Dam association, which has for its object the development of the Colorado river. Publicity matter, advertising Glendale, which would appear on the back of stationery and envelopes, as proposed to the chamber by J. T. Edwards, Glendale map maker, will be taken up by a special committee composed of George J. Lyons, Secretary, Mr. P. Clark and W. L. Truitt. Mr. Edwards suggests that each merchant and manufacturer have printed on the back of his letter paper and envelopes, Glendale booster material.

Glendale individuals and firms voted to membership in the Chamber of Commerce at the meeting are: Glendale Cafeteria, Blount's Cafe, James B. Bloor, C. R. O'Neil, Charles W. Whitestone, C. Milford Coye, Myrtle Weidenbeck, Valley Plumbing Co. and Elwood Gas Appliance Co.

The meeting took place at 4:30 o'clock instead of at 7:50, so that the directors were able to attend the banquet in honor of Glendale high school football teams served in the Christian church.

Revival Meetings to Continue at Church

Revival meetings at the Nazarene church have been so successful that it has been decided to continue them over Sunday, January 11. Rev. St. Clair is giving Bible studies Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons at 2:15 o'clock. His subject is "Prayer and Faith." Tonight at 7:30 o'clock he will speak on "Where Did the Devil Come From?"

WINTER'S HEAT COST

That people of America will waste not less than $100,000,000 in endeavoring to heat their homes this winter, is the prediction of coal experts.

Norway now has nearly 20,000 automobiles and trucks.

SCOUTS ELECT SAME STAFF TO OFFICE

Verdugo District Council In Annual Banquet Outlines Old Year's Work

Roy L. Kent was re-elected president of the Verdugo Hills district council, Boy Scouts of America, and all other officers were returned to their posts for another year at the annual banquet meeting held last night at the Oakmont Country club.

Henceforth the organization will be known as the Verdugo Hills council, it being voted to drop the word "district" from the name. This action was taken on suggestion of C. N. Miller, regional scout executive, representing the Los Angeles district, who was present as one of the principal speakers.

Other action taken included approval of the 1924 financial report, rendered by A. R. Eastman, treasurer; adoption of the 1925 budget, read by Harvey R. Cheesman, scout executive, and adoption of a 1925 camp policy, as outlined by Frank Ayars, chairman of the camping department.

The meeting was called to order by President Kent, who acted as toastmaster at the banquet and presided over the business session. After a reading of the minutes of the last annual council meeting, Scout Executive Miller delivered a stirring address on "The Boy and His Needs," declaring that the future lies with the boys of today.

He spoke of the international "Jamboree" held last summer in Denmark, when 10,000 Boy Scouts, representing thirty-seven nations, gathered in a monster rally, and told how American Scouts brought back the championship of the world. He contrasted the clean, healthy lives of Scouts with the lives of reformatory boys. "The Scout oath is a compass guiding the youthful mariner over dark and troubled seas," he said.

President Kent then called for district reports. Dr. C. M. Hensley responded for Eagle Rock; Mark S. Collins, for Los Cresta; and Montrose; M. A. Gilmer, for Tujunga; Dr. A. E. W. Yale, for Burbank, and Lyman P. Clark, past president of the council, for Glendale. The reports showed that scout work is progressing in every district, and that, all told, there are 609 Scouts in the Verdugo Hills council at the present time, with a total membership of 609 Scouts, thirty scoutmasters and nine scout commissioners.

Camping Policy

Frank Ayars then read a camping policy which he said bore his approval and that of Mr. Cheesman. Some of the salient points in this policy, which was adopted following the showing of a group of stereopticon slides on local camp work, were: Maintenance of camping equipment for 100 Scouts; transportation to be furnished by the council, on request, for troops to return Saturday night from these hikes, the council being opposed to Sunday camping; summer training camps to be conducted during May; summer camps to be conducted during the vacation months; an Easter vacation trip, for second-class Scouts; a special trip for first-class Scouts; a Christmas trip for second-class Scouts.

The financial report, rendered by A. R. Eastman, treasurer, showed the net worth of the council on December 31, 1924, to be $562.77, the net income for the year having been $1954.95, overcoming a deficit of $1092.18 on January 1, 1924. The gross income for the year, the report showed, was $7456.55, the gross expenses being $5501.60. The report was audited by Olin & Hutchinson, public accountants. The council adopted the report.

The 1925 budget, adopted by the council, provided for total expenditures of $9966, the three largest items being: Salaries, $5175 automobile expenses, $936; rent, light, heat and telephone, $582. Following a brief address by President Kent, outlining the achievements of the year, the members took the Scout oath, repeated the Scout prayer and adjourned.

Following is the full list of officers re-elected, on recommendation of the nominating committee, Mark S. Collins, chairman; Roy L. Kent, president; Dr. A. E. W. Yale, secretary; C. L. Wyman, treasurer; Harvey R. Cheesman, scout executive; C. L. Wyman, scout commissioner; Mark S. Collins, national council representative. The latter name is the only change from last year's list of officers.

Following is the list of those present: Roy L. Kent, Verdugo Hills council; C. N. Miller, regional scout executive; Arthur Roberts, Eagle Rock; J. B. Hudson, Eagle Rock; H. W. McGuire, Lyman P. Clark, R. Ernest Tucker; M. A. Gilmer, Tujunga; W. C. Jay, Tujunga; S. B. Kellogg; Dr. C. M. Hensley, Eagle Rock; A. R. Eastman, Hargrey R. Cheesman, the team Hunter, Frank C. Ayars, William C. Watters, C. L. Wyman, L. E. Wilson; Dr. L. Johns, Montrose; A. V. Adkins, Montrose; W. E. Hewitt, A. J. Lockwood, Peter L. Perry; Mark S. Collins, La Crescenta; Jesse E. Smith; Dr. E. R. Butterfield, Burbank; Dr. A. E. W. Yale, Burbank.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, Jan. 7.—"Why some Men Succeed and Others Fail," as discussed by H. V. Adams of Glendale Savings bank, made such an impression on the members of the Verdugo Hills Merchants' association that Mr. Adams has been requested to return at a later date, when an open meeting would allow many more to hear him. Mr. Adams said, among other things, that the average man of today is morally, physically and mentally lazy.

Frank Phillips of Glendale Merchants' association also spoke. Harry Fowler donated the use of the Verdugo City Auditorium, in the Fowler building, where a luncheon will be given in conjunction with the proposed open meeting. Mr. Farrand, secretary of the association, said there are now fifty-six members, and more applications for membership coming in every week. The La Crescenta valley meetings are held at Hillside terrace, where the members meet around the luncheon table to discuss business.

La Crescenta branch of the Los Angeles County Free Library reports the following number of books loaned last month: Adults, 235; juvenile, 205; magazines, 55; non-fiction, 84; making a total of 569 books loaned out.

Church Class Elects Officers for 1925

Completing activities for the year, members of the Tri Mu class of First Baptist church, held their annual business meeting last night at the church. J. Ray Bentley, president, was chairman.

Election of officers for the new year was held, with the following being honored: E. C. Boynton, president; P. L. Hatch, first vice-president; P. E. Maxwell, second vice-president; Arthur Sisley, secretary; P. Fleckenstein, assistant secretary; Paul Elliott, treasurer. Charles B. Elliott was re-elected teacher, to serve his fifth year.

Music was furnished by an orchestra directed by Rene Olin. Singing was led by Park Arnold, assisted by Judge Harry Chase. Reports given by officers and chairmen showed much progress in class affairs. Speeches predicting happiness and growth during the coming year were given by Charles B. Elliott and Rev. Ernest E. Ford.

The annual "Women's Night" for February had been postponed until March owing to the John Brown meetings. There are 120 men enrolled in the class.

WIDE HIGHWAY TO CONNECT FILMLAND

Chamber Bridge Committee Wants New Thoroughfare Into Hollywood

Feasibility of a wide highway connecting Brand boulevard in Glendale with Hollywood boulevard in the Movie City will be gone into by the highway and bridges committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. Such a connecting artery linking the two great boulevards of the two municipalities is being urged by a number of Glendale and Hollywood citizens headed by Edward Winter, Los Angeles and Hollywood attorney.

The plan of Mr. Winter as worked out with the approval of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce would call for a wide paved boulevard lined with ornamental light standards on either side.

Double Extension

Interest in the proposed meeting of officials of the city and Chamber of Commerce with Miller McClintock, traffic expert, next Monday, was manifest by directors of the chamber at their meeting last night. They will attend the meeting in company with members of the highway and bridges committee headed by L. T. Rowley.

Chamber directors are particularly interested in the move of the Glendale Citizens' Traffic commission for a double extension of Glendale boulevard, with a ridge over the Los Angeles river to connect with main arteries on the other side and a second road under the Pacific Electric trestle to care for the main bulk of the travel into Los Angeles.

THOSE CALORIES!

Mary had served in the family for many years as cook and general domestic and was greatly beloved by the family. One day, with tears in her eyes, she announced to her mistress that she was going to resign. She knew she had given faithful service but now the girls were dissatisfied and were making uncomplimentary remarks about her cooking.

"Why, Mary! What do you mean? The girls love your cooking as they always have."

"But they are all the time saying that I put something into the food so they can't eat it, and I don't," Mrs. Snow! Truly, I don't."

"Oh, I'm quite sure you're mistaken, Mary, but next time you hear the girls saying these things you call my attention to it."

That evening, as Mary was serving dessert, one of the daughters said: "No, none for me, Mary. Too many calories in it."

Mary burst into tears and appealed to her mistress. Mrs. Snow laughed happily and made explanations. So that's what was disturbing Mary—Calories!

Maybe you are like Mary and do not understand about Calories. So we will have a little lesson on them today because you have to have a knowledge of calories in order to have an intelligent idea of diet, especially of reducing and gaining diets.

Perhaps you have heard that the calories "theory" has been exploded? Let me say that there is no calorie "theory," therefore, none to explode.

A CALORIE is the unit of measure of heat, and of the fuel or energy value of foods. (Not heat, not food, simply the unit to measure them by—just as the yard is the unit of measuring the length of dry goods, and the pint a unit of measure of liquids.)

Technically, a Calorie is that amount of heat necessary to raise one pound (pint) of water four degrees Fahrenheit, or one kilogram one degree Centigrade. This is known as the large Calorie and is the one used in dietetics. (The small Calorie is 1/1000th of the large.) Briefly—

This is the way it is determined: An apparatus known as the bomb calorimeter has two chambers, the inner shaped like a bomb—hence the name—and an outer, tightly closed, which is filled with a known quantity of water. The food, the energy value of which is to be determined, is placed in the inner chamber in an atmosphere of pure oxygen ignited by an electric spark and burned. The heat from the combustion goes through the water and raises its temperature. When a pound of water is raised four degrees F., one Calorie's worth is burned, for that amount of heat has been chosen as the unit.

There is a very complicated apparatus known as the "respiration calorimeter" in which animals or babies or adults can live for days and everything utilized by them—air and water and food—is measured accurately, and likewise everything that is excreted by them. It has been proven that food utilized in the body has practically the same energy value as when burned in a calorimeter, and the tablets that are given by these experts allow for the differences in digestion.

It is not difficult to count calories. You can count them only approximately anyway. You have to count 'em for the rest of your life if you are inclined to be overweight, so you had better get a good text book on the subject. All book stores and libraries have textbooks on Diet and these books contain lists of 100 calorie portions of food. I will give you lists every once in a while in the column.

The thing you particularly want to remember is the calorie value of the foods you like best. They are undoubtedly very high in calories! Remember that a slice of bread, one-half inch thick, a pat of butter or any oil, one level teaspoonful, three cubes of sugar, a medium chocolate cream, one medium potato, one tablespoonful of ice cream, one ounce of fat meat, one to two tablespoonfuls of rich gravies, are 100 calories each. And a piece of pie, depending upon its richness, is from 250 to 350 or more. If you will remember these figures you will undoubtedly not eat three or four slices of bread at a meal and end up with a rich dessert for you will realize that you probably are eating in one meal enough for your needs for the day, and your other two meals are going to be stored away as fat.

Tomorrow—Daily Foundation Reducing Diet.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the same if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

ASTRINGENT LOTIONS

There are hundreds of thousands of astringent lotions on the market, at least 700 of which any woman can make up for her self. As almost every skin needs an astringent perhaps a list of a few would be useful.

First of all, there is ice out of the icebox. After the face has been washed and rubbed well with cream, and the surplus cream wiped off, roll a little ice in an old bit of muslin, and rub this over and over the face. Used without cream it might dry and chap the skin; used this way, it shrinks large pores, tightens lax and sagging muscles, and is the ideal astringent. It brings blood up to the skin too, and gives a dead complexion.

The easiest astringent is a milky emulsion made by adding tincture of benzoin, drop by drop, to either plain boiled water or to rose water until a quite cloudy, milky fluid is obtained. It is a very pretty astringent with its slightly opalescent effect, and looks well in fancy clear glass bottles on the bathroom shelf. This can be patted over the face after it has been washed and dried and used once every day.

Toilet water is astringent and so is toilet vinegar. These can be made at home. Witch hazel is a cooling, refreshing astringent, very mild in action and pleasant after a hot day's work.

A soothing, healing astringent can be made by adding a tablespoonful of powdered camphor to a half-pint size bottle of rose water but some people object to the camphor odor. Salt water is a bottle, and rubbed on the face will tone up the skin splendidly. This costs almost nothing.

M. H.: One very good way to get rid of bad blackheads is to hold cloths wrung from hot water over the skin for a few minutes until the pores are open, then to rub in quite a bit of powdered oatmeal. Wet the fingertips and dip in the meal and rub this damp meal into the skin. You can rub in a lot of it. Rinse out with hot water; the meal takes up the oily grease of the blackheads and brings it out. Rinse in cooler water and then apply an astringent. Ice is splendid. Do this every day and if the skin gets dry, rub cold cream on at night. J. J.: Send me a letter with a self-addressed stamped envelope and I will send you the formula for my hair tonic. This will stop your hair from falling and make it thicker.

Tomorrow: Eyelash Darkening

Turn this into a can with a tight-fitting cover, tie on the cover, and put the can into a large kettle of boiling water. Let the water boil around it for three and one-half hours, then serve hot with a hard sauce. This pudding can be kept a week, then steamed over for half an hour so that you can serve it hot.

Suet Pudding: Mix together three-fourths of a cup of molasses, one cup of sweet milk, one-half teaspoon soda (dissolved in the milk), one-half cup of chopped suet, one-half teaspoon each of ground cinnamon, nutmeg and clove, one cup of seedless raisins and flour to make a stiff batter. Cover with a meringue made by whipping two egg whites stiff with one-fourth cup of sugar, and place the pudding dish in the oven for a few minutes until the meringue is delicately browned.

Prune Puffs: Remove the stones from enough stewed and drained prunes to fill an ordinary measuring cup. Chop and mash this pulp to a smooth paste. Now beat four egg whites stiff, adding powdered sugar and one teaspoon of lemon juice, and stir the mashed prune pulp into this. Turn the mixture into buttered ramekins (or small tins) and place these small cups in a pan of hot water; put the pan in the oven and bake slowly until well puffed and firm. If for a guest meal, top each puff with whipped cream, serving the puffs in their little cups.

Special guests at the affair were Elder J. B. Bernsten, of the Southern California conference of Seventh-day Adventists and Evangelists McComas and Campbell and their wives, from Eagle Rock. Places were marked for fifty for the dinner. Forming the centerpiece of the table was a beautiful cake, made by Albert Blodeau of the Virginia Bakeshop, 654 East Broadway. The cake was two and a half feet long, iced in white, with decorative icing in pink and yellow. Cleverly expressing the names of Mr. and Mrs. Axup were two small axes and the words "UP." Given names of both and hearts were also on the cake. Table decorations were further carried out by the use of heart-shaped. The cake was presented by Messrs. Hollinger and Lettifer of La Crescenta. Later in the evening, recitations were given by Mrs. Bernsten, Johnny Walker and Miss Lettifer. Elders Bernsten and McComas gave short talks. ## A Sweeping Clearance of Silks, Dress Goods & Coatings

Thousands of yards of the season's most favored silk and wool dress fabrics go on sale tomorrow at January sale reductions which in many cases are less than wholesale cost. Our dress goods department is entirely too crowded with merchandise—many small lots must give way to our clearance program, so out they go at prices that give no idea of their fine quality or actual worth. It's a good time to start home-sewing so buy several dress lengths from these tomorrow.

YEAR'S REPORT FOR CHURCH RECEIVED

St. Mark's Episcopal Units
Review Successful
12 Months

Annual reports from organizations of St. Mark's Episcopal church were heard at the annual parish meeting held last night at the church, with supper served at 6:30 o'clock by members of St. Mark's Guild. Seven vestrymen elected to serve for one year follow: John Trotter, R. E. Downing, Albert Sullivan, George Montgomery, W. J. Faber, Archie Parker and Ralph Lynd. Delegates elected to attend the convocation to be held next spring and fall were: Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, Mrs. W. J. Farber, Carol F. Montgomery and Albert Read.

The first meeting of the newly-elected vestry will be held at the church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. John Trotter, treasurer of the church, reported that of the $2500 which had been borrowed for building alterations all had been paid with the exception of $750. During the recent "every member" canvass Mr. Trotter reported that pledges for parish support during the year amounted to $4850, and that $921 had been pledged for missionary apportionments, which more than covers the parish budget.

Guild Raises $1000
Reports from Mrs. W. J. Farber, president of St. Mark's Guild, and Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, treasurer, of the work of that organization during the past year, were given. More than $1000 was raised by the Guild during the year, and the sum of $250 was presented last night to the vestry for work of the parish. The Guild donated $50 to the Laguna Beach church to buy pews and $25 to help start an Episcopal church at Walnut Grove. R. E. Downing, superintendent of the Sunday school, reported for that organization, stating that the present enrollment was 258, the largest in the history of the church. Ralph Lynd is secretary of the school, and V. I. Coppard is assistant secretary.

Miss Grace Crampton, president of the Girls' Friendly society, reported activities of that organization, stating that $162 had been raised during the past year for social service work, this amount of money being for work outside of the local parish. Harold Phelin, president of the Young People's Fellowship, the youngest organization in the church, which was organized in three months ago, reported that the membership was now fifty. Mrs. John Cate, reported on the Little Helpers, which is the cradle-roll department, stating that thirty babies are enrolled. Mite boxes are given the babies and their mothers teach them verses on the boxes and social affairs are held by the mothers.

Harry lived with the Balls for five years in Chicago, but when the family came to Glendale he was left in Chicago with a relative. He longed to see his friends in Glendale and started for California, but was picked up by authorities and sent back to Chicago. But now he is to make his home in Glendale and is already a pupil at Acacia school.

Mrs. Bell states that when she and her son left Glendale December 16, they encountered heavy snow from the California state line to Chicago. On December 26 in Chicago the thermometer registered twenty-seven degrees below zero.

Wage Drop In Textile Mills Feared Spreading

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—It is almost certain, according to men close to textile circles, that the 10 per cent wage reduction in the Fall River mills which becomes effective January 12 will involve the two cities, one the major producer of coarse goods and the other the leading center for manufacture of fine mill cottons, have previously resisted the general trend toward curtailment of operations at Fall River in the last year was the most severe on record. CHAPTER XIV

"There will be no more," Itash declared. "Our extra battleships are hidden. No one knows that each one has a sister-ship."

"There remains that visit," Blunn muttered. "I shall brood over it until I have some explanation. I am not happy about you and your hobbies, Itash. Women are best left out of the game. I had rather you collected butterflies."

"I should be as likely to tell the butterflies my secrets," the young man scoffed. "You should know that we do not treat our womanhood as you do. They are the marionettes who dance for our pleasure. To treat them seriously would spoil our joy of them."

Cornelius Blunn seemed to be slowly coming back to himself. His tone was almost good-humored.

"Listen," he said. "You sup every night with your little lady from the Cafe de Paris at the Folies Bergeres, is it not so?"

Itash was a little startled.

"I am usually there," he admitted.

"Tonight," Blunn announced. "I am your host. I remember the young lady. I will dance with her tonight, whilst you look on and are sulky. You need not be afraid," he went on. "I have no designs on your belongings. It pleases me to spend an hour or so with you both. At midnight, at the Folies Bergeres! You have always the corner table on the right, have you not?"

"I have never seen you there," Itash remarked suspiciously, as in obedience to the other's gesture of dismissal, he rose to his feet.

"I have never been there," Blunn acknowledged. "But I know most things that go on in New York."

The supper party that night at the Folies Bergeres was expectedly gay, although, in one respect, the arrangements made by Itash miscarried. Mademoiselle Yvonne had found a friend, a Belgian young lady, who had attained some celebrity in the music halls as Mathilde Leroy, and some notoriety in the Press, owing to the number of her admirers and the eccentricity of her toilettes. Itash, who preferred to retain his dancing companion, invited Mademoiselle Mathilde to make a partie carree. But though Cornelius Blunn was gracious, as itself and the hilarity of the little party was chiefly due to his efforts, he evinced a partiality for Mademoiselle Yvonne which was somewhat disconcerting for her escort, and most disconcerting for Mademoiselle Mathilde.

"You will make him jealous, my poor Itash," Yvonne declared, laughing, as, for the third time following, she suffered Blunn to lead her amongst the dancers.

"He likes so to dance with me, the poor boy. Mathilde wears him, for she talks of nothing but her jewels, and her gowns, and her need for money."

"And what do you talk to him about?" Blunn asked.

She sighed a little.

"Of what is there one can speak," she complained, "with such as Itash? Oh, he is a good boy. He never flirts with the other girls, and he gives what he can. But women to him are just things without a soul. Often I wish that I had a friend who lived in the great world and who would speak to me of the things he did, of his triumphs, even of his troubles. That would make life more interesting. Some one, for example, like Monsieur."

"Does Itash never speak to you of serious things?" he persisted.

"Never, one word," she answered fervently.

"Do you think that he ever spoke to Cleo of such?"

"But why?" she demanded. "I have as much intelligence as Cleo, but it came about so. It is not all happiness, Monsieur Blunn," she whispered, "to have for a friend a young man often so morose and gloomy. Because I dance with you and he sees that I am happy, he will scarcely speak to me for days. He will not stay away. Oh, no. I shall have no liberty. When he has finished his work he will come, and lie still and smoke and watch me. I must be there for him to look at, to dance for him, if he wishes it, but of conversation, of companionship, of the good time together—nothing."

She shrugged her shoulders.

"He is constant," she admitted. "In his way he is generous. What would you have? He deserted another and came to me. When another comes whom I prefer I shall desert him. It is the life."

He leaned and whispered something in her ear. She laughed back at him softly.

"A man like you," she murmured.

"That would be paradise for any girl. See, let us sit and talk. Itash is dancing with Mathilde, after all. He swore that he would not again. But there they go. We will sit down. I will have some more champagne. We will talk, yes."

They left the dancers and sat down at their table. Blunn gave an order to the waiter who filled their glasses and departed for more wine.

"He dances well, at any rate," Blunn remarked, watching Itash and Mathilde. Yvonne was looking into her gold mirror, with a little powder puff poised between her fingers.

"He dances well, but like a monkey," she declared, without looking away. "He is what I call a gymnast. He does not make you feel the joy of it."

She suddenly pushed her van-

THE GATEWAY

It looks like William Austin was predestined to play eccentric English characters on the screen. Austin is always associated with the portrayal of English "dandies" on the screen. He comes by the English honesty, but the eccentricity has been developed. He was born in Georgetown, British Guiana, and educated in England.

Nature gave Austin six feet and an inch of leanness, with a long face and drooping eyelids always associated with English types.

So when he came to America to seek his fame and fortune on the stage, enterprising producers at once cast him in English roles, and he has stayed there all his theatrical life.

His latest characterization is in "The Garden of Weeds," the Betty Compson starring production which James Cruze produced for Paramount. He appears with Rockcliffe Fellowes, Warner Baxter, Charles Ogle and Al St. John, the featured players, among others.

But, in spite of his long association with English characters, and particularly comic English characters, Austin has a deep-set ambition.

"Just once," he says, "I'd like to play a really serious part."

"The Garden of Weeds," adapted from the Broadway stage play of the same name and with an Al cast playing in support of the principals, is due at the Gateway theatre on Wednesday. The usual extra special attraction for Wednesday evening is the well varied bill of select vaudeville.

"That would be paradise for any girl. See, let us sit and talk. Itash is dancing with Mathilde, after all. He swore that he would not again. But there they go. We will sit down. I will have some more champagne. We will talk, yes."

DOBBINSON PLAYERS

In "The Hole In the Wall," which opens tonight at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre, the Dobbinson Players have selected one of the ten best mystery melodramas ever brought to the stage. In New York it was a big hit. Fred Jackson, the author, is one of the most noted of popular American playwrights. The curtain rises at 8:15 o'clock.

Joseph McManus, as usual, has a highly amusing role. This time it is the reporter-detective who aids the police in rounding up a notorious gang of thieves. Mary Worth, in the part of Jean Oliver, a woman paying the penalty for a crime of which she is innocent, has a very sympathetic role. "The Fox," leader of the crack gang, is played by Olat Hytten.

"The Hole in the Wall" has for its basis a weird spiritism theme. To gain their ends, the crooks employ these psychic forces for evil. Jean Oliver associates herself with the gang in order to escape from the prison where she is unjustly held. There is a strong love element interwoven with the mystery and drama.

ity case on one side. She leaned across towards him; all the coquetry of her nature shone out of her eyes, lured him from her curving lips.

"Ah, Monsieur," she said, "you make me speak unkindly but I think that you make me love you. Shall I? Would you have me love you?"

"Mademoiselle, it would only be fair," he replied. "For I adore you."

"It is true?" she whispered, leaning a little closer. "You assure me that it is true?"

"It is true, Mademoiselle Yvonne," he assured her, "yet listen to me. I shall not treat you as my young friend Count Itash does. I shall speak to you as a woman of understanding, of sympathy, of sweetness."

"Proceed, Monsieur," she begged. "You intrigue me very much."

Uncle Wiggly

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggly was hopping through the woods, twinkling his pink nose, and wondering what Nurse Jane would give him to eat when he reached his hollow stump bungalow, the bunny gentleman came to a sudden stop under a bramble bush. For he heard a voice crying there in the woods.

"Perhaps it's a little lost Bob Cat," thought Uncle Wiggly to himself. "Sometimes the bad old Bob Cat sends the little Bob Cat to cry out in the woods, and then, when someone like me comes along and takes pity on the little Bob Cat, the big Bob Cat jumps out and nibbles ears. I must be careful."

Uncle Wiggly looked around. The sad crying sounded louder than ever, but there was no sign of a Bob Cat, big or little. And then, all of a quickness, the crying stopped and a voice said:

"Oh, I do want a new hat so much! Oh, how I wish I had a new hat!"

"Hum! That doesn't sound like a Bob Cat," thought Uncle Wiggly. And a moment later he knew it wasn't one of the bad chaps, for Susie Littletail, the rabbit girl, walked slowly along the path. It was Susie who had been crying.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggly kindly.

"Oh, I want a new hat so much!" sighed Susie. "All the other animal girls have new hats for the new year, but my mother won't get me one."

"Why not?" asked Uncle Wiggly, rather surprised, for he knew Mrs. Littletail to be good and kind. "Why won't your mother get you a new hat, Susie?"

"She says my old one is good enough," replied the rabbit girl. "But look, Uncle Wiggly, do you call that a good hat?" and Susie snatched from her head the bonnet she was wearing.

"Please don't ask me anything about hats!" begged the bunny uncle, twinkling his pink nose. "Nurse Jane always wants me to look at the new bonnets she buys, but I can't see any difference in them. But if you want a new hat, Susie—wait—I have an idea—the very thing—look!"

Uncle Wiggly pointed up into a leafless tree where, on a branch, was fastened an old bird's nest. In the spring the nest had been new, carefully woven by the robins. In it Mrs. Robin had laid her blue eggs and from the eggs little birds had hatched. The birds had now flown away where the weather was warmer, but the old nest was left.

"The nest will make you a fine hat, Susie," said the bunny. "Turn it upside down, stick a feather on and it will look just like some of the expensive hats from the five and ten cent store."

"It might be nice," said Susie, drying her tears, "but how can we get the old nest down?"

"Just then along," came Billie Bushytail, the squirrel.

"Please scramble up and gnaw that nest loose for Susie," begged Uncle Wiggly. Down came the nest. Inside it was lined with soft cotton from the milk weed pods, and with fine hair from ponies' tails. Uncle Wiggly cut two holes in the bottom of the nest, for Susie's big ears to stick through. Then, turning the nest upside down, the little rabbit girl put it on.

"How does it look, Uncle Wiggly?" she asked.

"Oh, very chic and stylish," he answered. "But a feather would make it more exclusive like and smart." So he picked up from the ground a feather that Mrs. Robin had dropped when she flew south. This the bunny stuck on Susie's nest hat with a bit of gum from the pine tree, and the little rabbit girl had as fine a bonnet as heart could wish.

"Now I am happy!" she laughed. And they all went home together.

But if the chocolate pudding doesn't fall in the flour barrel and turn white so it looks like a marshmallow candy, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly and the fluff pod.

POLICE CHIEF GIVES RULES FOR SAFETY

Traffic Situation, Remedies
Discussed at Meeting
Of Lions' Club

Wider streets, better traffic control, more adequate laws were the three remedies for the automobile situation outlined this noon by Chief John D. Fraser of the Glendale police department, in an address before the Glendale den of Lions, at its weekly luncheon meeting, held at the Egyptian Village cafe, 133 North Brand boulevard, President W. B. Kelly, presiding.

"You can't put a quart of water in a pint bottle," declared Chief Fraser. "Throughout Southern California, as elsewhere, the highways are too narrow. Another thing that must come sooner or later is a system of one-way streets, especially during the busy hours."

"Little can be accomplished, however, without proper legislation. A bill was introduced into the last session of the California legislature by Senator Arthur H. Breed, providing that licenses be issued only after examination. The Automobile Club of Southern California and other interested organizations recommended its adoption but the bill was defeated. Glendale's Toll

"Last December, Secretary Herbert Hoover called a national conference to discuss the traffic problem, a menace that during 1922 claimed 22,600 deaths in the United States, brought injuries to 678,000 motorists and pedestrians, and caused property damage of $600,000,000.

"In Glendale, during 1922, there were 1903 automobile accidents, our records show, resulting in 309 injuries and nine deaths. These figures are divided as follows: First quarter, 581 accidents, twenty-four injuries, one death; second quarter, 453 accidents, sixty-eight injuries, four deaths; third quarter, 459 accidents, seventy-six injuries, four deaths; fourth quarter, 425 accidents, ninety-one injuries, no deaths.

"These figures I consider appalling. It is a crime that such conditions should exist on the streets of Glendale. Yet there are those who severely criticize the sincere efforts of the police department to check the toll of accidents, deaths and property damage. Unless we can have the support of the entire city, we can accomplish little. There are those who believe in upholding all other laws, but when it comes to the traffic laws, they will violate them whenever they think they are out of sight of an officer.

"Carelessness and ignorance are the chief causes of accidents. Small fines do not answer. The offenders go out and do the same thing again. Only severe punishment, backed up, by strict state laws that will prevent children and other incompetent drivers from operating motor cars, will put a stop to the steadily mounting number of traffic accidents. "It is a crime to think that children, half-blind, half-witted and other incompetent persons are daily driving automobiles over the streets of this city and the highways of this state. No child under 18 years of age should be permitted to drive, and no one physically or mentally unqualified should be permitted to hold the wheel of an auto as deadly a weapon as the modern motor car. "This problem is not only serious but grave, and it must be faced fairly and squarely before the tidal wave of accidents, injuries, deaths and property damage can be checked."

Plan for Campaign
Plans for the safety campaign, start on January 20, under the auspices of the Lions clubs

P. E. PLANS BRIDGE
HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 7.—Construction of the Pacific Electric railroad bridge over the Santa Ana river near Talbert, which will open railway traffic between Long Beach and Santa Ana by way of Huntington Beach will start soon. Rebuilding of the bridge was recommended by the directors of the Pacific Electric by O. A. Smith, general passenger agent, and John T. Day, general freight agent of the district, following a conference between the officials and committees from chambers of commerce of this city, Santa Ana and Long Beach.

FORMER CHIEF FORGOTTEN
SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 7.—No man is without honor save in his own country. Such is the lament of D. F. Hunt, chief deputy county clerk. Hunt was postmaster in Santa Barbara for eight years prior to the Wilson administration and has prided himself with the thought that he was one of the best known men in town, especially among veteran postoffice employees. Recently, however, he received a letter mailed in Santa Barbara eleven days before it was held at the postoffice, according to a rubber stamped note, for lack of proper address.

SCHOOLS RECEIVE FUNDS
SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 7.—Schools of San Bernardino county will receive a total of $346,836.94 as a result of the apportionment of the county school tax funds, just completed by Miss Ida M. Collins, county superintendent of schools. In addition to this amount the schools also will benefit from the special district taxes collected.

SOLD EMBALMED MEAT
POMONA, Jan. 7.—A. Rooney, who conducts a butcher shop in Pomona, was fined $75 and sentenced to six months in the county jail by Superior Judge White on a charge of violating the pure food laws—selling meat containing embalming preparation to make it last longer without spoiling. The embalming ingredient, according to an analysis, was sodium sulphide, a drug very injurious to health.

FROSTED FRUIT BANNED
RIVERSIDE, Jan. 7.—Strict enforcement of the ordinance regulating the shipment of frosted citrus fruits has been started in Riverside with inspectors from the office of the horticultural commissioner inspecting fruit in all packing houses in the district.

ORANGE SHOW HOME
SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 7.—Meeting of the approval of the executive committee in every detail, the permanent home of the National Orange show has been formally accepted from the contractors. Less than four months was required to erect the building. It is the largest structure of its kind on the Pacific coast, 700 feet long by 135 feet in width. The roof, 50 feet high, is supported by gigantic arches. There are no pillars to obstruct the interior.

More than 5000 exhibitors are expected to take part in the sample fair at Milan next April. throughout the United States, were discussed at today's meeting and one of the features decided upon were windshield stickers to be used by all auto drivers. Chief of Police Fraser heartily endorsed the campaign, and assured the club of his support.

Charter night details were discussed, also. The charter night will be held January 22, at the Oakmont Country club, and several hundred persons will be in attendance, President Kelly announced.

A resolution was passed favoring the establishment of the University of California, southern branch, on the site offered by Burbank.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Buoyant conditions in the financial district today were not confined to the stock market. The advance in quotations for demand sterling to the highest point since 1916, pointing the way most clearly to a resumption of the gold standard in Great Britain; the definite easing of the money market, with call loan rates declining to 2½ per cent on the board and fractionally less than that figure in the outside market; the continuation of the rise in prices of convertible bonds and the evidences of further speeding up of the wheels of the country exerted a favorable influence on prices.

Southern Pacific occupied the center ring in the railroad activities and rose to 107½, a new high since 1920. New York Central made its bid for recognition at the opening by selling up to 124½ after which it declined fractionally, but the bulk of today's sales were at higher prices than at the previous close. Southern railway, B. & O. and other active rails featured a strong market, as also did Union Pacific and Norfolk & Western, each about 2 points higher and only fractionally below their best records for 1922. The "Northwestern" rails were in good demand and also sold higher. Price movements in the pool stocks were less spectacular than in recent sessions.

Oil and motor stocks were the most active in the industrial list. Atlantic Refining advanced to 109½ for a gain of 2½ points over Tuesday's low price. Mack Trucks advanced nearly 5 points on spirited trading to 123½, the highest price since 1910. A decline of 85 points in the price of refined sugar interfered with the rally in the sugar stocks.

The forward price movement was definitely checked in the last hour by a heavy outpouring of stocks on profit taking. Selling pressure was comparatively light and only the high priced industrial leaders which had advanced smartly earlier in the session retreated more than a fraction. The rise in sterling to 477 for demand and 477½ for cable, up 1½ for the day, was the most important feature of the financial markets in this period. Grains closed strong with wheat up 1c and corn about 1½c a bushel. Stock sales today totaled 1,805,300 shares; bonds, $17,144,900.

CHICAGO WHEAT

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—All grains closed higher today with the exception of the September wheat future, down ½c. Wheat was up 1½ to ½ down at the finish; corn was 1½ to 1½ up at the close. Oats closed from ¾ to 1½ up. Provisions were active and strong. There was less pressure and new investments buying advanced prices.

MARKET SUMMARY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—The money market, despite increases in money rates is favorable to continued expansion of business, according to wires of E. F. Hutton & Co. today. The output of manufacture and the volume of freight traffic have increased substantially since midsummer and building continues active. Agricultural prices have risen almost to the level of other prices, and the general European situation is better than at any other time since the war, financiers declare. The prospect in the United States, therefore, is for general business improvement during the first half of 1923.

A special meeting of the Mutual Oil company stockholders has been called for January 27 to change the name to the Continental Oil company and to increase the par value of stock from $100 to $5. This will be followed by a one or two exchange of shares.

The circuit court of appeals has affirmed the order of the federal trade commission directing the Butterick Co. to end its established price for its 27,000,000 patterns handled annually by 20,000 stores throughout the United States.

CHEST BUDGET CONSIDERED AT MEET

An Attempt Will Be Made
To Collect Unredeemed
1924 Pledges

No formal attempt to raise the unsubscribed 40 per cent of the 1925 Glendale Community Chest budget will be made and beneficiaries of the chest will be required to rebudget their finances for the year to comply with the 60 per cent allotment, according to Burton McGinnis, secretary of the chest organization. Members of the executive board met officially for the first time since the close of the drive in December, late yesterday. Methods of collecting on unfilled pledges made during the campaign a year ago, and plans for the disbursement of the 1925 funds were acted upon. Figures of the secretary showed that approximately only 60 per cent of the $50,000 quota for 1925 was pledged during the drive in December. Clean-up work done since the drive has not changed the amount materially. Of the $30,481 pledged, $11,481 has been collected to date, leaving $19,133 yet to be paid in. Already 15 per cent of the allotment of each organization has been turned over by the chest officials, according to the secretary's report. Present plans are to make the second disbursement on March 1.

1924 Pledges
A committee to be named by President W. E. Hewitt, will take up the knotty problem of realizing on more than 175 pledges made in the 1924 drive over a year ago on which approximately $2,500 remains unpaid. The committee will canvass the list of delinquents, many of which, it is said, have paid nothing on their pledges as yet. The meeting yesterday was held in the executive rooms of the Security bank with President Hewitt in the chair.

An auxiliary drive to raise the additional amount to put the chest over for 1925 without a deficit has been abandoned, according to Mr. McGinnis. No formal attempt to reach a number who were believed to have been overlooked during the first drive will be made, although clean-up work will be continued quietly in an effort to bring in as many pledge cards as possible. The directors of Community Service and others had heretofore urged that formal steps be taken to raise the whole chest budget even at the trouble of an auxiliary drive.

going to oppose the early ratification of the Child Labor amendment on the grounds that it will literally nationalize all persons under 18 years of age, according to their spokesmen.

San Francisco and Los Angeles delegations of clubwomen are here urging early ratification and find the farmers united in resistance. Because of the two-thirds majority required for a resolution indorsing a federal amendment it is not improbable that the whole issue will go over until the March session after the constitutional recess.

Reapportionment Fight Opened by Angelino

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 7.—Assemblyman Thomas L. Dodge, Los Angeles, today scheduled to fire opening gun in statewide drive for constitutional reapportionment of legislative districts. His bill ready to drop in the hopper on first call is entitled "An act to amend sections seventy-eight and ninety of the political code, relating to division of state into legislative districts and defining and establishing such districts." In Senate Joseph Pedrotti will make reapportionment fight. Assemblyman Harry Lyons, seat mate of Dodge, also from Los Angeles, and others expressed opinion there is possibility measure will pass this session if San Francisco wants harbor back from state control and "cow counties" want southern California's support for constitutional amendment of reapportionment.

Of interest to Los Angeles county is bill being prepared by Assemblyman S. C. Hartnaff of Fullerton, Orange county, which will permit small communities to incorporate by annexing certain contiguous farm territory. Questioned regarding reapportionment, his answer was: "I am from southern California and will stand with them."

Senator Chester M. Kline, administration ways and means committee in assembly last session and publisher of San Jacinto, Riverside county, who supported Richardson's economy program today was listed with "progressives" by Senator Jones, leading opposition to governor. Richardson appointed John King Democratic competitor of Kline's at Hemet state printer.

best known popular song writers. In Miss Gauthier's rendition of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" by Irving Berlin, "Carolina in the Morning" (Gus Kohn-Walter Donaldson), "Innocent Ingenuity" (Brian Hooker-George Gershwin and William Daly), "Swanee" (George Gershwin) and "The Siren's Song" (P. G. Woodhouse-Jerome Kern), there was none of the conversational lapses and vocal tricks and general air of confiding in the audience by which a professional musical comedy or cabaret performer puts over a song number. Miss Gauthier sang as seriously and skillfully as she had sung her classical numbers. Just as other audiences have done when Miss Gauthier has included jazz in her concert programs, Glendaleans applauded because they liked it. They applauded so uproariously that Miss Gauthier returned to sing Gershwin's "Do It Again."

Special mention should be made of Gordon Hampson, talented pianist, who assisted with the program. Mr. Hampson is an artist himself, and his work, particularly in the difficult modern numbers, was fully worthy of the great singer who was supporting him.

Mrs. Jones Greeted
A happy feature of the Music club gathering was the appearance of Mrs. Mattison Boyd Jones, founder and president of the club, who was greeted by the club for the first time since her return from abroad. In greeting the audience before the program Mrs. Jones announced that plans are under way for establishing an initiation fee in the club next year. She also stated that Glendale people joining now will have the opportunity of enjoying activities for the rest of the year for $4.

After the concert Miss Gauthier shared in the honors at the reception arranged by the club for Mrs. Jones. In the receiving line were Mrs. Jones, Miss Gauthier and members of the executive board of the Music club. Many distinguished musical people from Glendale and Los Angeles were among those attending the concert and reception. Mrs. Jones was presented with a basket of red rose buds from the club. Mrs. Colin Cabi, chairman of hospitality, presided over the punch table during the reception.

Committee reports were made for the past month at the meeting of the Glendale Realty board today. D. C. Casselman of the educational committee, reported that the first class in the real estate extension course will be held tomorrow night at the Harvard High school. Sixty-six have enrolled.

President Twining announced that the new multiple listing system will be put into operation immediately. Peter Hanson reported for the appraisal committee, J. M. Boland for civics committee, William L. Trutt for the industrial committee, Gould Warren for the entertainment committee, W. P. Hope, membership, A. H. Voelker for the program committee, A. L. Duncan for the resolutions committee, Mrs. Ana Venneman for the lunch committee, James W. Pearson for the legislation and taxation committee, O. M. Newby on reforestation.

R. N. Stryker, chairman of the realtor committee urged that signs bearing the word "realtor" be placed in the windows or other conspicuous places in each office. A distinctive seal for the use of the local board was also advocated. The destruction of trees by land owners in the vicinity of Sherman Way in the San Fernando valley, was deplored by Mrs. Mabel L. Tigh in a report to the board. Peter Hanson gave a brief outline of the work accomplished at the meeting of the California Real Estate association at Fresno.

HONOR GLENDALE'S GRID WARRIORS AT BANQUET

TRIBUTE PAID TO DYNAMITE SQUADS

Coach 'Gloomy Gus' Henderson Principal Speaker; Players are Praised for Efficient Work During Season

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.

"Finis" was written on the pages of 1924 football history in Glendale last night, when more than 200 business men, representing the Chamber of Commerce and eight service clubs, gathered at the Central Christian church to pay fitting tribute to the members of Glendale Union High school's three championship teams.

Elmer Henderson, coach at the University of Southern California, and known throughout the sport world as "Gloomy Gus," was the principal speaker on the program, arranged by George Lyons, George B. Karr and R. E. Johnston. Coach Henderson, in his address, said:

"Studies have their place and athletics have theirs, but when a boy gets the benefit of both he receives the best education that money can buy. The lessons learned on the football field are undoubtedly a wonderful help to the young man when he gets into the business world.

"One of the greatest lessons is in learning to follow the ball, to do a player's own work and get into the play and fill in where someone has failed. Another big lesson is learning to fight. Football teaches better than anything else confidence and modesty. Many players I have coached have been second and third-rate players until they learned to fight and found what they really could do. Also many players who have graduated from U. S. C. have proven beyond doubt that their football training has been their making."

"Gloomy Gus" was an interested spectator at the Glendale-Compton game for the championship of Southern California, and congratulated Coach Hayhurst and his staff of assistants on their work and the team they had put out.

George B. Karr, representing the Glendale Chamber of Commerce; R. E. Johnston, representing the service clubs, and Mayor Spencer Robinson, representing the city of Glendale, spoke on "Why We Honor Our Teams."

"The dynamite helped put Glendale on the map, and I wish to thank the boys and the coaches for all they have done for Glendale," said Mayor Robinson. "Undoubtedly football is the best advertisement a city can have."

"We honor our football teams because we honor those to whom honor is due," stated George B. Karr, in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce. "I might tell you more of the exploits of our teams, but I couldn't make them seem any more wonderful; you've done it."

R. E. Johnston introduced the heads of the various service clubs who were joining in honoring the teams.

Ferguson Toastmaster
Albert D. Pearce responded to the three speakers and encouraged football as a game for the high school and community as a whole, stating: "When you play clean, hard football, as you did this season, we are back of you, and the citizens of Glendale are back of you." George U. Moyses, principal of Glendale Union High school, was unable to be present.

A. L. Ferguson acted as toastmaster and presented to Coaches Wolfe and Hayhurst the C. I. F. plaques for the Classes C and A championships of Southern California. The three league banners were hung over the tables of the respective championship teams, and the trophy cup, presented to Glendale High for the Southern California championship, adorned the table of the heavyweights.

Mr. Ferguson introduced each coach, who in turn introduced members of his team. Short talks were given by Monte Killinger, captain of the Class C team; Roland Read, leader of the lightweights; Dick Ryan, captain of the heavyweights, and Cecil Zaun, heavyweight captain-elect.

Music By Orchestra
Prior to the dinner "America" was sung. The invocation was rendered by Rev. C. A. Cole. The football teams sang "Oh Fair Glendale." Selections were rendered by Percy Eckles' orchestra.

The banquet was in charge of the general committee, composed of R. E. Johnston, George J. Lyons and George B. Karr.

Splendid dinner, with roast turkey and dressing as the "piece de resistance," was served by the Women's Union of the First Christian church.

Sleepy Year In Ring

LUIS FIRPO and the mitt that lifted the world champion heavyweight, Jack Dempsey, out of the ring. However, Firpo's bid for fame seems to have ended there.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News.

Little enthusiasm can be stirred up over the activities of the boxer in 1924.

The fight game might well be said to be in a slightly decomposed state as the new year dawns. Another year like the past and the last sad rites can be sung over it.

The sad state of affairs is indicated by the general belief that Luis Angel Firpo, a fizzle as a fighter, remained the outstanding figure of the year by virtue of his Herculean feat on September 14, 1924—that of knocking the world's heavyweight champion out of the ring. This fame drew him bouts and purses during the past year while better fighters, tripped across the footlights and twiddled their thumbs while loquacious managers drove sport writers insane.

Fails to Connect
Firpo proved himself a bust by failing to knock out Harry Wills and then losing to the veteran has-been, Charley Weinert, who was a white hope when Jess Willard was still a broncho buster.

Incidentally I fear I mentioned Firpo's socking of Dempsey as an event of the year in an earlier review story and did not make it plain that the fame of that blow, carrying him through the season, was meant.

While Firpo was slipping and cashing checks Jack Dempsey remained in the movies.

Mike McGuire retained the light heavyweight title.

Harry Greb, middleweight champ, gave two men cracks at his title—Johnny Wilson and Ted Moore—and won both battles.

Mickey Walker, welter champ, was tickled when his proposed decision battle with Benny Leonard, lightweight king, fell through.

Benny Leonard prized his thumb more than he did a chance to sock Walker and so he failed to appear in the ring in an important fight. He showed lack of force in the bout he arranged to try out his stuff before the date of the Walker-Leonard battle.

Quits One Throne
Johnny Dundee, featherweight champ, abdicated that throne without defending his title.

He lost the lesser title, the junior lightweight crown, to Kid Sullivan.

Abe Goldstein created the first upset in fistic circles by depositing Joe Lynch, veteran bantam king.

And then Eddie Cannon Martin gave the fans a wee thrill in the late hours of the year by knocking Goldstein from his throne.

Pancho Villa, flyweight champion, was slated to meet Frankie Genaro in a title bout and Genaro's illness prevented that battle.

If you can find anything in the above records to cheer about go to it.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Knute Rockne did well to decline the suggestion that his team play California before departing from the west coast. Notre Dame went to Pasadena to play Stanford and having concluded that contract had no further obligation. Since Stanford had tied California and Notre Dame had defeated Stanford the idea of a game was far-fetched anyway.

They say several Penna players were not sold on the California junket. They had played through a season as hard and grueling as three ordinary seasons. But even so, the 1925 agenda, with games to be played against Illinois and Chicago, will make the recent autumn seem dulcet and restful by comparison.

Boxing Notes

At Denver—Harry Galfund, Brooklyn, outpointed Jack Payne, Chicago, three rounds.

At New York—Ed Garvey, former Notre Dame football star of South Bend, Ind., knocked out Ben Smith of Englewood, N. J., first round. Yale Okum outpointed Ed Smith, six rounds; Ben O'Donnell of Bayonne, N. J., knocked out Petro De Laura, Italian heavyweight, second round; Ed Keely of Bridgeport, Conn., stopped Carmine Caggia, second round; Jimmy Francis of Hoboken, N. J., knocked out Jack Ford, third round; Mel French put out Frankie Kelly, second round.

Walker Confident on Eve of Big Contest

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 7.—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, predicted today that he would win by a knockout tonight in his fight here with Mike McGuire, light heavyweight titleholder. Victory by that route would make Walker a dual champion.

The bout is scheduled for 12 rounds, but Mickey is confident it will not go beyond ten, at most. No decision is permitted under the New Jersey law and only by stopping McGuire can Walker achieve his ambition.

McGuire's weight edge on Walker and his ability on the defense, many experts believe, will enable him to stave off the Jersey man. Walker rules favorite, however. Irrespective of the outcome, Walker said, he intends to try later for the middleweight title now held by Harry Greb.

FINN SETS THREE INDOOR RECORDS

Paavo Nurmi Outruns Ritola, Joie Ray by Fast Pace At Madison Square

By FORD C. FRICK
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A slight, stoop-shouldered Finn, a mere boy with curly, flaxen hair and the skin of a bank clerk, took New York by storm last night. Over in Europe they call him "the flying Finn." Hard-boiled New York had heard that title and smiled to itself, a little skeptically. Now New York knows.

New York today belongs to Paavo Nurmi. Last night, running for the first time in America, among strangers in a strange land, Paavo Nurmi broke three world records—one for the mile, one for 1500 meters and one for 5000 meters.

His time for the mile was 4 minutes and 13 seconds, one and three-fifths seconds faster than the former indoor world record mark made by Joie Ray. The time for 1500 meters was 2 minutes 56 1-5 seconds and for 5000 meters, 14 minutes and 44 3-5 seconds. Never before had Paavo Nurmi run on an indoor board track.

Cheered By Fans
Nurmi literally ran the legs off Joie Ray in the mile race, in which Joie himself broke his own world record and then with a rest of a scant two hours, came back and ran his own countryman, Willie Ritola, into complete and abject submission over the 5000 meter route.

At the finish he smiled boyishly, almost shyly as 10,000 frantic, excitement-mad fans rushed and crowded and pushed and yelled: "Nurmi! Nurmi! Nurmi!"

It was in the mile that the flying Finn made his debut. The crowd gasped when he trotted out on the track. He looked too slender, too undernourished, too thin of cheek, too boyish. New York had expected something unusual. They saw only a boy, a flaxen haired, smiling boy, a bit shy and a bit nervous from the strangeness of it.

Fifteen Yard Lead
Nurmi won the mile in the last lap, passing Ray like a blue-jerseyed flash. He breasted the tape fifteen yards in front. Ray was racing his heart out, trying to catch a shadow.

In the 5000 meters he beat his ancient rival Ritola, one of his best competitors, when Nurmi set four world records in the Olympic games.

These two ran their mightiest and lost—lost because the hare cannot outrace the antelope; human feet cannot catch the moon-beam.

Seattle Twirler May Not Go With Senators

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Vean Gregg, veteran southpaw twirler for the Seattle club, may not become a member of the Washington Senators next season, it developed today following the failure of Gregg to sign a 1925 contract. Gregg, according to President Clark Griffith, has refused to affix his signature to a Washington contract until the Seattle club has made good to him certain payments he alleges are due him for extra work during the 1924 season.

The Washington team purchased the aged pitcher for $15,000 of which $10,000 already has been paid.

Landis to Make Known Testimony In Scandal

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Promise that he will make public testimony in the case that resulted in the banishment of Jimmy O'Connell and "Cozy" Dolan, of the Giants, from organized baseball, is made in a letter received by New York baseball writers today from Commissioner K. M. Landis.

The commissioner promised, it was stated, that O'Connell's testimony will be made public within a few days. He has been withheld since last October, when Heinie Sand of the Phillies charged he had been offered a bribe "not to bear down" against the Giants, then in the throes of a hectic pennant struggle.

Jugo-Slavia Peasant Leader Under Arrest

LONDON, Jan. 7.—M. Raditch, leader of the Jugo-Slavia peasant movement, has been arrested, according to a Central News dispatch from Belgrade. His arrest as part of the Bulgarian and Jugo-Slav movement against radicalism had been expected.

The peasant leader was arrested at Agram and was the final leader taken in the government roundup of radicals. The government has decided on criminal proceedings against the communist and Bolshevik leaders.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.
It's no easy matter to pick 'ten best' megaphone wielders hollering in the studios. It's not easy because unbiased selection necessarily has to take into consideration the conditions under which directors holler and the bankroll back of each holler. A case to point may be cited in Cecil de Mille's position. When de Mille started "shooting" initial scenes for "The Ten Commandments," it was pretty generally understood by those on the 'inside' that he was given a ten-million-dollar range over which to work. Most any man, woman or child, with basic principles of picture-making could turn out a hundred commandments under those conditions.

Given a good cameraman, technical man, expert "prop" builders and hustling assistant, and, first of all, a good story, a director of mediocre ability is just as liable to turn out a "super" picture as a Griffith. Witness "Covered Wagon" when Emerson Hough turned over rights to his book to Famous Players-Lasky.

Jimmie Cruze was unheard of as director before those wagons started rumbling over silver sheets. Until then he was mighty fine actor. He had directed some pictures but was still comparatively unknown when cameraman started cranking on "Covered Wagon."

This screen version of Hough's novel of the "Forty-Niners" was meant to be an ordinary "program" picture on Paramount's releases. That long line of wagons striding out over the desert got some enterprising "preview" artist's eye and Paramount immediately started its Coronas working overtime telling world about world's greatest "super" picture.

Then a George M. Cohan hurra stunt was pulled. "Covered Wagon" was dedicated to Theodore Roosevelt with preamble and flag waving in first reel clinching the bargain. "Covered Wagon" proved to be one of the best money-makers since Warner Brothers' lack of rights to Ambassador Girard's "My Four Years in Germany" which, because of its psychological arrival, made fortunes for everyone concerned.

This only goes to prove that there is more luck in picture making than in all art. Some day picture production will be an art but not until commercialism, George M. Cohan hurra stuff and burlesque legs are chased from studios and intelligent authors new in conjunction with directors in saving their writings from being maltreated, mutilated and beaten beyond all recognition.

When the producer will listen to the conservative author instead of lending his ears to salesmen yelling for more "sex drama" and less art and scenario writers who still wear suspenders, then and only then will the studio door be opened to art.

Pictures today have no tendency to elevate the masses to an understanding and appreciation of art. Instead producers will burn candle at both ends trying to figure out ways and means to bring pictures down to level of burlesque-minded audiences.

Susie McTish makes a big hit in "Unvirtuous Vamps" and entire industry runs wild "shooting" unvirtuous vamps with accent on both ends of the title. Twenty-four sheets mar nature's scenery in four quarters of globe flaunting bare legs and wild cabaret parties in eight different colors.

These are some of reasons why it's a hard job to pick ten good directors. The directors aren't always to blame if they are credited with "unvirtuous vamp" pictures. It's the producer. A director has more revolutionary movements to contend in the studio than president of Mexico. Average director is beaten before he picks up megaphone.

Taking all these little inconveniences into consideration with a million more left unmentioned Ye Ed will take the huge responsibility of placing ten men rightfully or unrightfully claiming that title.

"Lean-faced" Griffith tops our list—not because of any particular work turned out last year but because of his general good work over space of 17-odd years and his creation of the greatest picture ever made—"The Birth of a Na-

GLENDALE CASEYS FIGHT FOR LEAD

Meet Los Angeles Council Here on Sunday; Four Wins Chalked Up

The Glendale Caseys will battle to retain their hold on top place of the Southern California K. C. league here Sunday afternoon when they meet the team from Los Angeles Council No. 621. The local Caseys have won four straight games in the league, while the Los Angeles players stand second with three victories and one defeat.

"Chief" Butler, who has hurled the local team to victory since the season started, will be on the mound. Myers will work behind the log, where his work has attracted the attention of coast baseball magnates. Myers has received an offer to join the Sacramento club next year, while Coozington, another stellar player on the local team, stands a chance to play with Los Angeles next season.

The game will be played at the ball park on San Fernando road and will start at 2:30 o'clock, according to an announcement by Harry Manush, manager. The Glendale Caseys defeated Long Beach last Sunday, 16 to 3, at Long Beach.

We'll be called old-fashioned for those words.

Charlie Chaplin next—yes as a director. Monta Bell who directed "The Great Dictator" transferred from the Pacific coast league to the major leagues, values determined by the announced price, it is computed that $1,275,000 has been spent in the past four years for coast talent.

This sum, however, is in excess by several hundred thousands of that which has actually been paid out, because some of the deals were part payment deals in which the player had to make good before the full sum was paid, and some of them failed to make good. There were instances in which only the first down payment was made.

In the case of Kamm of the San Francisco club, the total sum of $400,000 was paid. Comiskey's check for the full amount having been exhibited. The Giants paid the full price for O'Connell because of the keen competition which existed at the time for the central figure in the late bribery scandal.

In some instances of player transfers, where other players figure in the deal, a total amount is named for the entire transaction, the services of the players exchanged being figured out—and figured out at good round sums. It is related of one major league manager that he took on a player from the International league for $2,000 on Friday, and quoted him on Monday as worth $5,000.

The sale of Statz of the Los Angeles club to Chicago for $75,000 is figured as one of the big transactions of the coast, but it was merely taking money out of one pocket and putting it in another. All transactions between Los Angeles and Chicago are on the same basis.

The Seattle club and the Boston Nationals figured at $50,000 and yet there was nothing like that sum passing between the clubs, as Boston players were figured in $8 sums representing considerably more than their worth on the hoof.

The so-called $50,000 deal for Walberg of which the New York Yankees were the party of the buying part, is another which is overestimated. It was given out that Walberg was a $50,000 player and the report at the time seemed good advertising, because at the moment the majors were outbidding each other, and looking for publicity. Now they are not so keen about it. They have had more advertising than they wish, as too many of them have picked flivvers off the plum tree.

Walberg never cost the Giants $50,000 and if he had they would have been badly stung as in the O'Connell deal, in which a player was taken before he was ripe, and a player who was not of the type that McGraw can get as much out of as some other managers.

The sale of the Athletics was announced at $75,000, but Hale is now quoted as having gone to the Athletics for $20,000. Of all the transactions of recent years between the coast and the majors, none has been more remunerative than the exchange by which Detroit got Blue, Bassler, Fillette and Johnson—but the first two really belonged to Detroit in the first place and were out in California getting seasoned.

There's your ten. We didn't mention Ernst Lubjvitch, the German director, for this reason: Lubjvitch since coming to America has made four pictures to our knowledge. There may be more but four are enough for our purpose. They were: "The Marriage Circle," "Rosita," "Three Women" and "Poisoned Paradise." The first and last were mighty fine pictures. "Rosita" and "Three Women" were flops.

Certainly there was no known reason why Lubjvitch should have flopped with Mary Pickford to direct in "Rosita." In "The Three Women" he had one of the best actresses on stage or screen—Pauline Frederick. Any one of the ten directors named above with possible exception of Monte Bell (and he's new at the game) will turn out more consistently good pictures than Lubjvitch.

FIRPO PLANS TO TRAIN REAL HARD

Decides on Three Months of Preparation Before He Will Enter Ring

PARIS, Jan. 7.—Luis Firpo is through with fighting after only sketchy training. He wants at least three months' preparation hereafter. The reason Charlie Weinert of Newark, N. J., jabbed him to death, he says, was that he went into the ring with but three days' training.

These were the assertions of the former "wild bull of the Pampas," in an exclusive interview with International News Service just before he boarded the boat train for London. There he will complete arrangements for a fight with Tom Gibbons.

"I won't fight before April in any case," he announced, apparently revising his attitude since his announcement last week that the Gibbons fight probably would be the first week in March.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The first of the National champions definitely to announce his intentions of making a visit to California is Kid Kaplan, the new featherweight king. Just what inducements have been offered him he does not say, but he admits he will do some fighting there, following a trip to Canada where he is going to toughen himself up in falling from toboggans and tripping over his skis in the winter sports at Montreal.

It may prove that the best contender Kaplan will face for his title will be Babe Herman who fought in the same ring and on the same night that the Connecticut youth beat up Danny Kramer.

Herman's bout against Billy De Foe, who is no mark for any fighter, renewed the enthusiasm in this California wallpaper that was inspired when he first came east.

Herman is a vicious wallpaper and seemed set for high honors, when he pulled a couple of mediocre fights and then went west. Now he is back again and looking better than ever.

Few fighters get so badly marked up as Kramer did in his battle against Kaplan. A few hours after the fight his features were so badly distorted that his best friends would not have recognized him. Still, that is liable to happen any time a man uses his face instead of his arms and gloves to block blows. Kramer never thought about defense, his sole idea being to get in there and stomp away his opponent.

Why should the fans demand that Kaplan meet and defeat Dundee before he can be regarded as having a clear title to his crown. Dundee can't make the limit and justify himself. That is the reason he retired.

N. Y. GETS MEEHAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Although John F. (Chick) Meehan, Syracuse coach, is said to have been in receipt of offers from Nebraska and Southern California, a definite report was in circulation today that he had accepted the offer of New York university.

WALTER CAMP SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—One of the most interesting points which has been raised in discussion of the writer's all-America team for 1924 is the fact that Yale, although going through the season tied for leadership with two other eastern teams, and undefeated all season, did not win a place on the first all-America eleven.

Anyone who studies the history of Yale football will realize that this very fact demonstrates the greatness of the work done by Tad Jones and his assistant coaches. Having lost practically all their stars, they developed in a period of great stress, a real team that finished a very shaky, desperate season with a united, effective organization and defeated both Harvard and Princeton.

Even these coaches were decidedly "up against it" when they saw their team barely squeak through the Georgia game, 7-6, heaved a sigh of relief at a tie with Dartmouth when the latter had the ball on Yale's two foot line with four downs to get it over, and again went through another tie game with West Point.

Certainly that team missed Mallory, Milstead, Stevens and Richeson, four great men of last year. But they had the fighting spirit and after seven weeks of agonizing effort developed coordination and came through a finely working organization in spite of the lack of outstanding stars.

Reds' Star Won't Play Basketball With Pros

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—Sam Bohne, baseball player of the Cincinnati Reds, will not play basketball with the newly formed California professional basketball association as he was scheduled to January 10, it was announced here by Dean P. Maher, president of the association. Bohne's action, Maher said, was taken after an exchange of telegrams with August Herrmann, president of the Reds and resulted in Bohne signing his 1925 contract with the Cincinnati team and forwarding it to Herrmann.

State Oil Flow Runs Far Below Last Year

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—Oil production in California is running about 200,000 barrels below that of a year ago. The Torrance and Dominguez fields are the only ones to show increased production while all others have fallen off. Much interest now is centered in drilling operations in Kettleman hills.

While a nurse was bathing off the coast of Scotland, she was caught by the tide, and keeping her presence of mind, floated five miles where she swam ashore.

STATE FINANCES OF AUTO DEALERS

Treasurer M. B. Towman
Gives Report on Condition
Of Association

The treasurer's report rendered at today's luncheon of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association showed a balance on hand of $365, constituting the healthiest condition the organization has ever enjoyed, according to M. B. Towman, secretary and treasurer. The luncheon was held today noon at the Egyptian Village cafe, 133 North Brand boulevard, President Lyman P. Clark, presiding.

The resignation of C. L. Smith, Chevrolet dealer recently succeeded by J. V. Hough, was accepted, and Mr. Smith was tendered the well wishes of the organization by President Clark, in reply Mr. Smith declared:

"I have enjoyed this organization greatly and have found it a decided benefit in my business. I have been a merchant for thirty years and I have never enjoyed any organization as much as the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association."

Invited to "Jinks"

The club invited Mr. Smith to be a guest at the 1925 "Jinks" celebration, scheduled for the middle of the summer.

The problems involved in handling the second-hand car situation occupied a prominent place in the discussion.

Plans for a Glendale automobile show were outlined by Harry La Breque.

LAW MAKERS TO HELP TEACHERS

Los Angeles Solon Introduces
Bill to Amend Salary
Retirement Law

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 7.—Assemblyman Willard Badham of Los Angeles today presented a bill in the California legislature which would amend the teachers' retirement salary fund act to permit the payment of partial retirement salaries to those teachers who by infirmities of age or physical incapacity are unable to complete the thirty-year period of service. The bill requires that they must have taught fifteen years in order to get a pro-rata salary. The measure is fostered by Los Angeles teachers, Mr. Badham said.

Assemblyman Howard Davis has been requested to reintroduce the Los Angeles county measure advancing the date of tax payment from December to March. Senator Chester Kline of San Jacinto said he will reintroduce his bill calling for a Southern California state fair at Riverside. He also is preparing a constitutional amendment reappointing the state, one of the houses of the legislature to be controlled by population and the other by area. His state superintendent of public instruction declared today.

Economy Program of Governor to Continue

policy has been economy and will continue to be economy." Concerning the political aspects, the governor said: "During the past two years I have endeavored to give the people a business and not a political administration. Appointments have been made on merit and not on political pull. The present state administration has no political machine or political organization."

Yellow Journalism
The governor referred to the hoof and mouth disease, the forest fire situation and an epidemic which he declared had made the year a trying one in California. More deadly than these, he said, were "the flames of yellow journalism which lighted up the world with false, exaggerated and lurid tales."

The hoof and mouth disease, he said, cost the state and nation directly nearly six million dollars. He placed the problem of highway financing squarely up to the legislature. Attention was again called to the importance of legislative reapportionment.

The governor urged passage of the child labor amendment and emphasized the importance of education, declaring that the various school districts should be given greater control over school affairs.

With reference to the new athletic commission to govern boxing, the governor declared that he had appointed a commission that will give the law every opportunity to function.

State Teacher Tenure Law Unconstitutional

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 7.—Action of the Napa county superior court in declaring unconstitutional the state teacher tenure law adopted in 1921 may invalidate many other sections of the state school law. Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, declared today. Wood pointed out that the court held the tenure law was invalid because it singled out school districts employing eight or more teachers. Similar classifications are stipulated under the law with respect to the employment of school district superintendents, he said, and the decision may also affect school bond issues as the present statutes classify districts according to the average daily attendance of their schools. Teachers are expected to appeal the case to the state supreme court.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Frank C. Weller, Glendale assemblyman, is to the forefront this year. He is in high favor of the administration and recognized as one of the strongest men Governor Richardson has in the lower house of the Legislature.

It is interesting to see the progress he is making and watch his consistent performance. Two years ago he was a novice. He said little and served in the ranks. Now it is different.

Attorney Weller probably by this time has been named chairman of one of the most important committees; he is reported to have been selected by the governor to introduce the important federal child labor amendment resolution in the House. And that will not be all.

Of interest to clubwomen, no doubt, for the writer personally knows Mrs. John Robert White, Jr., of Glendale, among others, is staunchly supporting the child labor amendment, the attitude of the agricultural districts toward this legislation is surprising.

Because the United States Senate voted down the clause permitting boys to work on their parents' farms, the cow country legislators have been importuned to vote against the resolution ratifying the amendment.

Here at the capital the writer has talked with three spokesmen from the country districts regarding the subject. Charles Foster of Fowler, administration supporter, is not going to vote for the child labor amendment resolution because the farmers of his district are against it, he claims. Van Bernard of Glenn county, a rancher and former Salvation Army captain, who is listed among the anti-Richardson progressive forces, is going to vote against it. Roscoe Anderson, newly-elected assemblyman from Redding, and an attorney, says he has received more protests against the child labor amendment than letters supporting it, and he accuses the clubwomen, with their highly organized and wealthy associations, of stampeding the solons to favor it. All three favor a delay until after the February recess.

It is not at all difficult for Mr. Babbitt, from Main street, to get the viewpoint of these men, who are open and frank in their opposition, despite the fact that most of us favor stringent child labor laws. Coming from the country districts, where home life is more or less ideal, where children grow up to be useful citizens, they feel the wording of the twentieth national constitutional amendment of the child under 18 years of age. And that WOULD be true if Congress enacted certain laws. It WOULD be possible to name the schools children attend, the courses they SHOULD study, and, in general, control their lives in any way the demagogues in Washington would see fit.

This centralization of power in the national capital comes in for criticism, also, on the part of the farmers. So you see the issue raised over the child labor amendment gets down to fundamentals. It is the expression of the individualist, who in extreme cases is classed as a socialist; as opposed to the Socialist, who in the extreme is a Communist. These terms are not used with any relativity to political groups, but simply in the literal sense of the words.

The clubwomen and social reform agencies hold to the Socialist theory, while the agrarians follow the course of individualists. More and more will be heard from these two classes as America progresses, although we shall mentally grow to accept the views of both and weigh their merits.

The conservation and social reform agencies hold to the Socialist theory, while the agrarians follow the course of individualists. More and more will be heard from these two classes as America progresses, although we shall mentally grow to accept the views of both and weigh their merits.

GARAGE THIEVES TAKE ADVANTAGE

Glendale Resident, Absent
In Frisco, Returns to Find Changes

James A. Hunt of 360 West Magnolia avenue reported today that his garage was broken into and ransacked during his absence in San Francisco. Mr. Hunt left Glendale December 28, and discovered, on his return January 5, that the garage had been entered. Numerous automobile accessories and tools were reported taken. The Glendale police are making an investigation.

Scotty Shook of 1130 North Campbell street, reported the theft of his bicycle last night from near the corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway.

Ralph E. and Myron N. Quackenbush, sons of Ralph E. Quackenbush, Sr., of 560 West Riverdale drive, were haled before Chief John D. Fraser of the Glendale police department yesterday afternoon, charged with firing off a .22 calibre rifle and an air-gun in the city streets. They were reprimanded by the chief and the weapons were destroyed, at the father's request.

It was reported that Emilio Ramello, arrested December 21, in Glendale, for operating a "still," was arrested again last night by the Burbank police on a charge of transporting liquor. Ramello recently paid fines of $500 each on counts of possessing and transporting liquor within the Glendale city limits, police records show, and was released on $1000 bail, to appear for trial on the charge of manufacturing intoxicants.

FOREST SOCIETY NAMES OFFICERS

H. S. Gilman of San Dimas
Angeles Protective
Association

H. S. Gilman, official of the San Dimas Water Co., at San Dimas, was elected president of the Angeles Forest Protective association to fill the place of Charles G. Dunwoody, of Pasadena who has resigned to become chairman of the conservation section of the California Development association with headquarters at San Francisco. The election of Mr. Gilman took place at the meeting of the forest association at Marigold Gardens on the foothill boulevard near Azusa last night, after the resignation of President Dunwoody had been accepted with deep regret. Dunwoody was one of the main organizers of the association and an ardent worker for its success. The new president has been active in the forest protective work likewise.

Percy J. Hayselden, chief of the Glendale division and director representing this city, Leo Lang and Ray Fairall were present at the meeting. Through the efforts of the Glendale representatives to the next meeting of the association to be held sometime in March will come to Glendale. The exact time and place of the Glendale meeting will be announced later, according to director Hayselden. Conservation and forestry legislation to be acted upon by the present session of the legislature were discussed. Among the bills for passage at Sacramento affecting forestry work are those on appropriations for reforestation, establishment of agricultural experimental stations, fire prevention and funds for the state forester's office.

Glendale Represented At Community Meet

Dr. Jessie Russell represented the Glendale Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of 110 communities of the Los Angeles metropolitan district held at Santa Monica last night. The purpose of the meeting was to lay plans for an inter-city organization for concerted action in matters of wide interest. It was pointed out at the meeting by Wyllis S. Abbott, for many years chairman of the inter-city relations committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, that there are thirty-five incorporated cities in the Los Angeles area at present and more than seventy-five unincorporated communities. No organization exists through which concerted action can now be taken, he said and urged that the municipalities band together for this purpose.

CHARGE GERMANY MAINTAINS ARMY

Imperial General Staff Has Been Recreated, Says
Note From Allies

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The charge that the great general staff of the former German imperial army has been recreated is contained in the note sent by the allies to Germany as an explanation of why the Cologne area was not vacated, it was learned here tonight when the text of the communication was made public.

Short service volunteers have been recruited, the note adds, and charges that the transformation of factories for the manufacture of war materials has not been carried out as stipulated in the Versailles peace treaty that fixed January 10 as the date for evacuation of the Cologne bridgehead.

In a word, the note says, the conditions necessary to partial evacuation have not been effected.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, Jan. 7.—Montrose Chamber of Commerce disposed of several business items at the meeting held last night at the Montrose school.

Called to order by President James Brown, the minutes of the previous meeting, also of the board of directors' meetings, were read by the new assistant secretary, Frank B. Turner. The first business disposed of was the endorsement of the motion made by Harry N. Fowler at the meeting of the Verdugo Hills Credit association in the afternoon, to appoint a managing committee of three men, one from each organization, to form a reserve volunteer fire organization, also to attend the installing of fire hydrants throughout the valley and a suitable siren.

Arthur Aiken of La Crescenta, C. L. Mead of Montrose and Harry N. Fowler of Verdugo City, were the men designated, receiving the chamber's endorsement. C. L. Mead of the fire, water and light committees reported for each 15 hydrants have been received by him from the county, ten of which are installed, the other five to be in place by end of week. Water situation is favorable at present. The various boards of the water companies throughout the valley are to hold a meeting relative to forming a water district in the valley.

Lighting for streets, according to Mr. Mead, can best be taken care of by forming new lighting districts, having the property owners sign for the new lights desired. Intersection signs such as Glendale has recently placed at strategic points, would cost in the neighborhood of $300 each, Frank Turner said, when the question arose whether they should be included in the lighting district for the taxpayers' care.

Special committee reported on auditing the books of the organization from its beginning. Books are in good condition, Messrs. H. F. Alden and T. H. Slattery in charge, reported. They were also appointed by the chair to draft a business program for the making and handling of funds.

Under new business the chair brought the matter of the New Year bombardment Montrose residents suffered from. Mr. Brown stated Mrs. Keller, who is ill, suffered from shock as the Keller home was shaken, damaging the walls, while numerous homes lost windows. A motion was made to the effect that the chamber go on record as being opposed to any further demonstration. After much discussion, it was decided to have the bills sent in for damages by the property owners themselves.

George Wales Farrand brought up the matter of a sign, "Montrose the Gateway to the Verdugo Hills," to be erected at the intersection of Montrose and Honolulu avenues, which would illuminate the roads at night, also advertise the town. Mr. Farrand stated the merchants of the town are willing to stand half of the expense incurred to erect the sign if the chamber would stand the other half, also their share of the maintenance. A committee of three members, who are business men of the valley, were appointed to look into the matter and report. Messrs. Sheridan Young of the Young's hardware; F. L. Howard, of the A. & H. Investment company, and S. F. Fowler, of the F. H. Fowler & Hoffman grocery, will serve.

Bills were next presented, the following being ordered paid: Glendale Evening News, Southern California Edison, Edding's Elec-

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Jan. 7.—Fire Chief Harry Rice and his new fire engine, which arrived in December to function in the Tujunga-Sunland fire protection district, made the first run to an alarm coming from the home of Virginia T. Connelly, 243 North Sunset boulevard. A large chimney broke in half and flames from the break threatened the house, but were quickly extinguished by chemicals from the engine.

Volunteer firemen, subject to call in emergencies, are being drilled in practice on Saturday afternoons. A schedule of pay for the volunteers will be worked out. Elmer McCoy, Frank Kresler, Noel McVine and Martin Anderson are serving as relief firemen to the chief at the station house, which has a telephone, No. 13. Arrangements have been made with telephone operators of the Sunland Telephone Co. to take fire alarms and call the volunteers and relief men and the station house, subscribers merely giving the operator the location of the fire.

County supervisors have agreed to purchase a site for a permanent fire engine house. The property is located on El Centro street east of the American Legion property and has an alley eighteen feet wide. Transfer of the deed is being made and a building will be erected as soon as this is finished.

During the last six months only six house fires have been started in Tujunga, according to a report by Fire Chief Rice. The damage was slight and no damage has been done by a few brush fires which were quickly subdued.

New officers of the Tujunga Masonic lodge have been installed. Inspector Dwight W. Stephenson of the Grand Lodge was present. Past Master A. H. Fink was presented with a past master's diamond ring by his brother Masons.

George L. Aiken has the honor of being the first new member initiated into the Tujunga Masonic lodge. Members of the Glendale lodge and others were present. Refreshments and speeches followed the ceremony.

The bills amounted to $53.11.

Letters of appreciation from the Montrose P. T. A. and the Angelus Protective association were read and accepted, the former for the chamber's check of $20 for the Community Christmas tree, and the latter for the $50 check presented the Angelus association in appreciation of the splendid work done by the volunteer members during the summer months.

A communication from an unnamed person residing in Oak Grove Park, requesting the endorsement of the chamber in making a map of the numbered house district of the valley to present to the county for official acceptance received endorsement. At the request of Mary B. Darrow a blackboard will be placed in the county branch of the La Crescenta valley library, which will be used as a bulletin board for the valley.

In speaking of the school conditions of the valley, C. Reinhard, of the board, stated the two schools are crowded, there being forty and forty-five pupils in each of the three rooms in Montrose with three and four classes to each teacher, and that conditions must be remedied. A meeting will be called of the property owners in regard to an election. This matter received the endorsement of the chamber. The election will be for the full amount $55,000

KID M'COY WILL SEEK NEW TRIAL

Convicted Ex-Pugilist Claims
Mysterious Assailant Shot
At Mrs. Mors

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—That a mysterious assailant fired upon and attempted to kill Mrs. Teresa Mors some days prior to her death August 12, 1924, in connection with which Kid McCoy was recently found guilty of manslaughter, was the story discussed here today as a probable factor in McCoy's defense at a second trial.

Motion for a new trial will be argued next Friday and should it be granted it was said an eyewitness to the reported attempt to kill Mrs. Mors will be a witness for McCoy.

Should the motion for a new trial be denied, defense attorneys said the case would be carried to appellate court, following the sentencing of McCoy from one to 10 years at San Quentin prison, as provided in the manslaughter verdict.

On February 16 the former pugilist will go on trial on assault and robbery charges, an aftermath of Mrs. Mors' death, which arose from McCoy's outbreak at Mrs. Mors' antique shop the morning of August 13, when he shot three persons and held up four others.

Congressman's Divorce Case Suddenly Stopped

ALPENA, Mich., Jan. 7.—Judge Frank E. Merriek abruptly terminated the Scott divorce hearing until Tuesday, March 10, indicating that he believed no further good could be accomplished by additional testimony now by either Representative Frank D. Scott, who brought the suit or the wife, Edna James Scott.

Additional depositions are to be taken on Mrs. Scott's behalf in the interval and at the resumption of the case, these will be read along with that of Floran Dalaw, the Scotts' Filipino servant, which has been held up because of a technicality concerning its certification.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Jan. 7.—A gratifying increase in membership was noted at the weekly luncheon meeting of the local division, Merchants' Credit association of Los Angeles, held Monday noon at the Black Cat tea rooms. Among those present was C. W. Young, president of the Chamber of Commerce, under whose sponsorship the organization was recently launched.

The sum of $57.95 was realized from the Rockdale school Christmas program, it is announced. This will be expended as follows: $10 for new phonograph records, $5 for orchestra music racks, the balance for cafeteria equipment. The $60 raised by the Rockdale P. T. A. at their recent bazaar will likewise be expended on cafeteria equipment.

The cafeteria of Rockdale school has been completely reorganized. From proceeds earned by the Christmas program and the Rockdale P. T. A. bazaar, new screens and a screen door have been purchased for the kitchen; also new kitchen utensils and serving trays. Further improvements are planned for the near future.

Among miscellaneous books recently added to the Eagle Rock branch of the Los Angeles Public Library are the following: announcements Mrs. Blanche Gardiner, librarian: Bogardus, "Fundamentals of social psychology"; Depeew, "My memories of fifty years"; Esenwein, "Writing good English"; Friel, "River of Seven Stars"; Goodman, "History of the Jews"; Gostling, "Lure of English cathedrals"; Haardst, "Across the Sahara by motor car"; Rinehart, "Common sense of health"; Sturges, "Investments, a New Profession"; Vanderberg, "The greatest American, Alexander Hamilton."

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Olsen of 5347 Summer avenue had as their guests during the holidays, Miss Pearl Clark, who is on her way to visit relatives at St. Paul, Minn. Miss Clark is a professional nurse who has spent several years in Tsien Tsien, China, and had some interesting experiences during the recent trouble in that country.

The many friends of Rev. E. Morgan Isaac, pastor of the Congregational church, will be pleased to know that he has returned home after an absence made necessary owing to the condition of his health, which has greatly improved.

Balboa Islanders Get Promise Of More Gas

BALBOA, Jan. 7.—Protests on the part of Balboa island residents has finally brought relief from the gas shortage. The Southern Counties Gas Co. has begun installation of larger mains. The company's present service to the land is through a two inch main which the rapid growth of the community has severely taxed. The recent cold spell caused a shortage so acute that Christmas dinners could not be cooked and Islanders were decidedly uncomfortable.
